Movie Producer Says For 50-50 Split Of Receipts He Was Promised Protection From Justice Dept. In Showing Fight Films

Small Fines Paid In Some States and Then Showed Pictures Though Against Federal Laws

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Investigation of the department of justice and Attorney General Daugherty, got off into less turbulent waters today in comparison to the explosive session heretofore.

It revolved around the story of "protection" for the showing of the Carpentier-Dempsey prize fight films and alleged gun running on the Mexican border in connection with the unsuccessful Cantu revolution.

F. C. Quimby, producer of the fight films, testified that he and Tex Rickard, the promoter, had no intention of showing the films outside of the state of New Jersey and abroad, because of the law prohibiting their interstate transportation until Jap Muma, Will H. Orr and Ike Martin came to him and explained a plan to permit exhibition of the films in the various states without getting into trouble.

Quimby identified Jap Muma as a reporter on The Cincinnati Enquirer, E. B. McLean's newspaper, and said Ike Martin was from Cincinnati. He did not identify Bill Orr.

Orr, Quimby said, referred to the late Jesse Smith, Attorney General Daugherty's friend, as a friend of his, but he (Quimby) said he did not know the attorney general.

Orr, Muma and Martin, Quimby testified, told him to go ahead. A lawyer named Urion, Quimby said, retained by Orr, Muma and Martin, was to designate lawyers in various states who were to look after exhibitions of the films. The plan, as he outlined it, was that the films were to be shown in each state first before some "veterans' organization."

"Then," said Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, "the buyer in that state would be hauled up before some justice and fined. That was the arrangement, wasn't it?"

While Quimby would not agree to that, he testified that a plan of taking fines and then going ahead and showing the pictures was followed in some states and he identified the list of individuals, given out last night by Attorney General Daugherty, as those who had been prosecuted for showing the films as the same men who had been the buyers for the "state rights" under the plans of distribution he outlined in his testimony.

In New York, after prosecution, Quimby said, somebody in United States Attorney Hayward's office told him "to wait awhile," and then go ahead.

In New York, Quimby testified, he showed the films, was fined a thousand dollars, continued to show them and made about $75,000 until a department of justice agent called on him and he then decided to desist.

Under questioning Quimby testified he knew the films had been shown in Washington before President Harding, Postmaster General New and other officials.

Under questioning by Senator Wheeler, Quimby testified that the department of justice never had gotten out an injunction to stop the exhibitions. To Muma, an employee of E. B. McLean, Quimby testified he had paid about $65,000. For fifty per cent split, Orr, Muma and Martin, the witness said, he "was not to be disturbed."

Movie Man On Stand

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Sudden shift was made today in the Daugherty investigation, neither Gaston B. Means nor Miss Roxie Stinson being recalled.

Frank A. Vanderlip, the New York financier, who appeared in the Teapot Dome hearing, was seated near the committee table as the hearing opened.

Although scheduled to begin hearings at 10 o'clock the committee was half an hour late in getting under way because of the confusion caused by the great crowd of spectators which insisted in forcing its way into the hearing room.

F. C. Quimby, of New York, a moving picture man, who made the films of the Carpentier-Dempsey fight, was today's first witness.

Quimby told of his acquaintance with William Orr and Jap Muma, identified yesterday by Gaston B. Means as part owners of the Carpentier-Dempsey films, but said he did not know Jess Smith.

"I was the producer."

"Are you acquainted with Jack Kearns, the manager of Dempsey?" Senator Wheeler proceeded.

"Yes."

"With Tex Rickard?"

"Yes."

Quimby said he made a contract in 1921 with Rickard to produce and sell films of the fight.

An agreement later was made between him and Rickard, the witness said, for display of the films in other states.

Senator Wheeler asked if Quimby knew Attorney General Daugherty. Quimby said he did not.

Had Plan To Display Films

Rickard told him, he said, that Muma, Orr and a man named Ike Martin had told him they had a plan to display the films.

Quimby said he believed there was a written agreement for the shipment of the films outside of New Jersey and that he might have a copy in his office in New York. Checks were paid out, he said, under the agreement for the use of the films.

Rickard told him, the witness said, that there was a plan "submitted to him whereby the pictures could be sold" outside in violation of the law.

"I believe Mr. Orr used to refer to Jesse Smith as a friend of his," said Quimby.

"These men were understood to have a plan whereby the pictures could be shown legally," said Quimby of Orr, Muma and Martin. Quimby told of discussions with a local attorney named Urion whom he understood to be a friend of Attorney General Daugherty.

"My understanding was that these pictures could be shown legally and everything would be all right," Quimby said.

The pictures were to be sold to one man in each state and he was to be the distributor.

Quimby was to have nothing to do with transportation or distribution of the films, but only to make, sell and deliver them in New Jersey.

"Who did you understand Jesse Smith was?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"A friend of Attorney General Daugherty."

"Didn't you understand that Orr was representing Smith's interests?"

"I don't recall whether he ever mentioned that or not."

"Well, how did Smith's name come in?"

"Just that Orr was a friend of Smith's."

Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, asked for more details.

"It was just that these men had a plan whereby the fight pictures could be shown legally," Quimby said.

Quimby said he showed the pictures first before disabled soldiers in a Staten Island hospital in "my state" and that he and "Tex" Rickard were fined and also reprimanded by the district attorney.

Senator Wheeler bringing out the details of the exhibition plan, pointed out that the pictures had to be shown before a "veterans' organization" in each state.

"Then after that exhibition," the senator said, "the buyer in that state would be hauled up before some justice and fined. That was the arrangement, wasn't it?"

Paid Small Fine Then Showed Pictures

Quimby would not agree to that. The action would be up to the buyer of each state, he asserted. Pressed by Senator Wheeler, Quimby said he understood a similar plan of receiving small fines and then showing the pictures was followed in other states.

"How did you get your money?" persisted Senator Wheeler.

"From the buyer."

"Now, didn't you tell me last night the pictures would be shown in each state before some veterans' organization and then the buyer would be arrested?" demanded Senator Wheeler.

"I told you my experience in New York," Quimby replied. He and Tex Rickard had been arrested there for the first showing.

Some one in United States District Attorney Hayward's office in New York told him to "wait a little while before showing the pictures again."

He said he could not remember who told him to wait.

"Didn't the district attorney's office then tell you to wait a couple of weeks until public sentiment subsided and then go ahead?" Persisted Senator Wheeler.

"They advised me not to go ahead," Quimby said.

"You did know this was the plan fol-

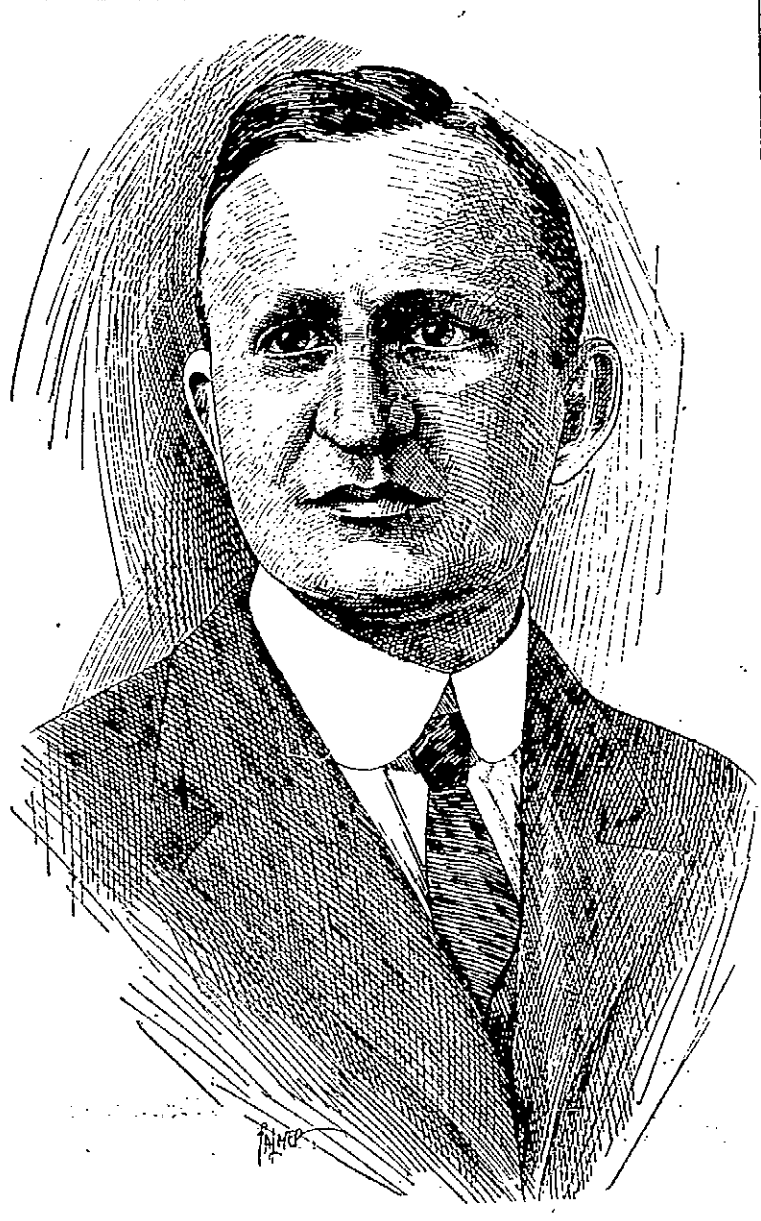
Brief Sketches of Their Lives, Which Should Be An Inspiration to All; Opportunities In Portsmouth for the Hard-working, Conscientious Young Man Just As Good As Anywhere Else In The World



WALTER A. BRAUNLIN

Rising from ordinary circumstances, affording no better opportunities than are had by hundreds of other Portsmouth boys and girls, Dr. Walter A. Braunlin is today one of Portsmouth's well known physicians.

Born in Portsmouth, April 3, 1885, Walter A. Braunlin was educated in the Portsmouth public schools and was for several years a newsboy on the Portsmouth Times. As a clerk in the local drug stores he gained valuable experience for his later profession. Dr. Braunlin was graduated from the Cincinnati College of Pharmacy in 1905 following which he successfully passed the State Board of Pharmacy examinations and received his certificate as a registered pharmacist. For several years Dr. Braunlin held the position of pharmacist at Hager's Drug Store. Later he entered the Miami Medical College at Cincinnati, was graduated and admitted to practice in 1911. Following his graduation from Medical College he served as interne in the Jewish Hospital, Cincinnati. In 1912 Dr. Braunlin was appointed surgeon in the National Military Hospital, Marion, Indiana, where he was associated with his brother, Dr. William H. Braunlin. Later Dr. Braunlin was transferred to a similar position in the National Military Hospital at Dayton, Ohio. In 1914 he began his private practice in Portsmouth and at the outbreak of the World War enlisted in the United States Medical Corps. After the cessation of hostilities he resumed his practice here.

In 1916 Dr. Braunlin was married to Miss Emma Havener of South Webster. They have one son, Walter Jr., and one daughter, Martha Louise.

Dr. Braunlin is a Knight Templar, a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason and a member of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He is also a charter member of the Yezdigerd Grotto. His York Rite memberships are all in the Masonic bodies of this city, while his Scottish Rite and Shrine affiliations are at Cincinnati. Dr. Braunlin is a member of the Frst Evangelical church, the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, the Hempstead Academy of Medicine and the Ohio State Medical Association.

Dr. Braunlin feels that his own experience is proof that the man who has the will, can succeed in Portsmouth. "There is no royal road to success," he says, "the chief need is the will to succeed, and the boys and girls of Portsmouth have opportunities as great as are to be found anywhere."

Drys Are Happy Over Legislation Passed By Congress; See Chance To Stop Rum Smuggling

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1924)

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The "drys" are happy. They see the end of rum smuggling. The action of the House in passing by an overwhelming vote the bill providing for the enlargement of the coast guard service and the ratification by the Senate of the treaty with Great Britain enabling the seizure of rum runners 12 miles from shore are two measures which look to the rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Although it is true that the treaty with Great Britain simply binds the vessels of that country and does not prevent rum runners from hoisting the French or the Chinese flag for that matter, the "drys" insist that the pact with the greatest maritime nation in the world establishes a precedent and that the likelihood of serious international complications has been diminished. After all, the only navy in the world comparable to the American sea force is the British. It is not likely that the other naval powers will be inclined to question American seizure of their vessels particularly with the British treaty as a recognition of the principle involved.

The British were careful to stipulate that they did not give up their three-mile limit idea for territorial waters especially in war time, but the American government was interested only in the 12-mile limit, for search purposes to stop smuggling in peace time.

As for the vessels of other nations with which the United States will seek treaties similar to the British, the "drys" feel confident that the laws of the United States as well as international law permits the capture of any ship which can be proved to be in contact with the shore for the purpose of smuggling or violating domestic laws.

With the coast guard enlarged the government will be in a position to collect more evidence of this kind. Enough precedents for this form of seizure have been established and foreign nations have not protested against the principle though they will undoubtedly require the American government to prove its case every time.

The new coast guard bill permits the transfer of smaller craft, which have become useless to the navy as auxiliaries to a fighting fleet, which can

Ready for Round-The-World Trip

SANTA MONICA, CAL., March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Clover Field was a-bustle with biplanes today as final preparations were made for the air carnival tomorrow, in connection with the army's around-the-world-flight, which will start Monday.

A third of the approximately 100 planes expected to participate in the carnival are here. The others will arrive during the day and early tomorrow.

In addition to an exhibition flight by the world cruiser planes, other events on the carnival program include refueling in mid-air, sky writing and aerial smoke screen exhibition.

Lone Scouts And Boy Scouts Unite

CHICAGO, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Consolidation of the Lone Scouts of America with the Boy Scouts of America whereby the membership of the Boy Scouts will be increased from 600,000 to 700,000 was begun here today.

The merger was sanctioned recently by the executive board of the Boy Scouts at a meeting in New York and Armstrong Perry, former chief pioneer scout of the Boy Scouts, was commissioned to devise means of effecting the amalgamation.

The organizations will retain their identities while their officials consider the problem of consolidation.

The Lone Scout movement, designed primarily for country boys, was started in 1915, by W. D. Boyce, of Chicago, who also was responsible for starting the Boy Scouts in the United States because of a "good turn" done by a Boy Scout in London.

MILLION DOLLAR SUIT HEARD

CLEVELAND, O., March 15.—Trial of a $1,000,000 suit was under way today before Common Pleas Judge Samuel Kramer five years after it was filed. The suit brought by the Goff Kirby Coal Company against the East Ohio Gas Company, involves $800,000 damages for alleged break of contract with interest on $300,000 from June 28, 1911, and on $500,000 from April 1, 1915.

HOW TO DRAW TENANTS LIKE A MAGNET DRAWS STEEL FILINGS

The method is this. Go to the 'phone and say, 2900. Please. Hello, is this the Times office? Please connect me with an ad-taker."

Then you will tell your little story, like Mrs. Isabel Kricker, 1312 Fourth street, did last week. And you will rent your property immediately, like Mrs. Kricker did.

If you bear this in mind, you will feel much better on rent day.

SINCLAIR AND JAPS AFTER OIL LANDS IN ORIENT

TOKIO, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Barring of surveyors representing Sinclair Oil interests from the Island of Saghalien has focused official and public attention on the contest between the Sinclair corporation and the Japanese for rich oil lands in what nominally is the Russian half of the island The opinion is general in official circles that eventually exploitation will be by Japanese.

The government recognizes Russian sovereignty in Northern Saghalein, where the oil fields are situated but continues military occupation, which is described as comparable to French rule in the Ruhr, as a guarantee for satisfaction for the massacre by the soviet of 700 Japanese at Nikolaievsk in 1920.

Influential Japanese companies three years ago formed the Hokushin Kabushiki Kaisha, or North Star Company, to exploit the Saghalien fields. The organization was capitalized at 3,000,000 yens and was subsidized for more than 2,000,000 yen by the navy. Surveys were carried on for two years. Boring machinery recently was shipped to Saghalien. It is unlikely that these powerful Japanese interests ever will consent to abandonment of their project.

The reception of J. P. McCollogh and L. F. McLaughlin, American surveyors for the Sinclair Company by the Japanese commander was most courteous. They were entertained at dinner but firmly told that while the Japanese army was in supreme command of the administration of Saghalein, including the island mining rights, Americans would be forbidden to invade the island. Concessions granted by Russia, they pointed out, are worthless since Russian authority is not recognized by the Japanese.

Children Under Care of League

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND, March 15—(By the Associated Press)—Henceforth the children of the world will be under the protection of the League of Nations. The International Bureau for Promotion of Child Welfare has been functioning in Brussells under the auspices of thirty governments and various national organizations but the council of the league, with the consent of the interested parties has authorized the concentration of all child welfare activities here.

A special department will be created by the league to handle all matters concerning the protection of children.

Mayor Win Dever "Presidential Timber"

CHICAGO, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Mayor William E. Dever, of Chicago, has created a nationwide impression that he is presidential timber, George E. Brennan, Democratic leader in Illinois, declared yesterday at a meeting of Cook county Democratic workers.

Selection of Mayor Dever would be fulfillment of the demand that the next president come from the body of the people, Mr. Brennan said.

Poincare Has Another Squeeze

PARIS, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Fighting single handed against the strongest opposition encountered during his present administration, Premier Poincare has won for his government the right to make laws governing immediate economies and fiscal measures by simple decree, without parliamentary ratification.

The victory came when the senate, after a lengthy session, bowed to the premier's will and by a vote of 154 to 141 agreed to the bill of authorization in the form passed by the chamber of deputies. It was the nearest Poincare has come to defeat since assuming the premiership in January, 1922.

Article one of the measure is designed to give the government wide powers in combatting economic and financial evils which are held partly responsible for the recent decline of the franc.

Sails Under $1,000,000 Bond

NEW YORK, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—The British Steamer Orduna sails for Hamburg today under $1,000,000 surety bond with one of three counts charging violation of the Volstead law dismissed and with the trial of the government's suit for confiscation of the vessel as a smuggler postponed until she returns from her present voyage.

The ship was seized by federal officials Wednesday and seven members of her crew confessed they smuggled liquor and narcotics into the country. Federal Judge A. N. Hand ruled, however, that the ship was not liable to seizure under the Volstead law unless her captain had been convicted on a charge of violating that law.

Patient Dead, Doctor Burned By Explosion of Anaesthetic

BALTIMORE, MD., March 15.—(By the United Press) — Bernard Cohen, a patient, is dead and Doctor H. Warren Buckley, is suffering from slight burns as the result of a mysterious explosion of ethylene gas in an operating room of Union Memorial Hospital. At the time of the explosion Cohen had just undergone a minor operation for carbuncle and his wife was preparing for a major operation. While the accident took place Thursday, full details became known only today. Dr. Richard H. Follis, who operated on Cohen, and Dr. Louis T. Hamburger, who was present as Mrs. Cohen's physician, although having nothing to do with the operation, both say the explision was without precedent in surgery. They explained that ethylene gas has been used as an anesthetic for only about two years. According to Coroner John J. Morrissey, Cohen died in his room less than an hour after the explosion as a result of a rupture of the blood vessel in the lung caused by the explosion.

Found Shot At Movie Studio

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—An unidentified man was found fatally wounded early today at Warner Brothers' Motion Picture Studio in Hollywood. He died while being taken to the receiving hospital. He had been shot in the throat. Inside the studio gates, police said, was an automobile belonging to H. L. Warner. The engine was running but no one was about.

Archbishops Reach Paris

PARIS, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Archbishops Hayes, of New York, and Mundelein, of Chicago, arrived early today from Cherbourg on their way to Rome where they are to be made cardinals at the coming Easter consistory. The liner Berengaria on which they were passengers, had a rough crossing from New York.

The prelates proceeded directly from the station to their hotel for a much needed rest, which is likely to last until they leave for Rome Sunday.

DISMISSED BY THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

NEW YORK, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Having been dismissed as superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League's metropolitan district, Dr. Samuel L. Hamilton charges that salaries were kept from employees of the league in some cases for three months, because the funds subscribed for prohibition work were converted into a gift to W. H. Anderson, not to exceed $7,500. Anderson was convicted of forgery and resigned as state superintendent of the league recently.

The cause given officially for Dr. Hamilton's discharge was hostility to the policies of the league. Simultaneously the league retracted yesterday a ney Banton.

Dr. Hamilton said he was not hostile to the policies of the league but told the little group whom the considered jointly responsible with Anderson for the league's difficulties.

"The little group," Dr. Hamilton asserted, allowed Anderson to "continue to have desk room and office space in our headquarters after his conviction of a crime and six weeks after he was asked to resign."

The Rev. W. H. Morgan, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Baltimore, succeeds Dr. Hamilton.

REVIVAL MEETINGS

Bigelow Revival

The close of the first week of Lenten services at Bigelow revealed two very encouraging results: an increased interest and a deepened spiritual response. It would seem that our complex civilization, with its multiplied conveniences, bringing luxury and comfort to our people, ought to satisfy the last desire of the human heart: but strange to say, this fond result has not been achieved through mere material processes. After the world of things has offered its best, the soul cries out for God. St. Augustine was inspired when he said: "Thou hast made us for Thyself, and the heart of man is restless until it finds its rest in Thee."

Mr. Lynn's interpretation of Carrie Jacobs Bond's famous song, "I've Done My Work," was done with such telling effect that a request was made that he sing the same song again. Arthur Lynn is singing his way into the hearts of Portsmouth's music lovers. After he has completed his slate, which keeps him busy to Easter, he goes to Los Angeles, California, where he will sing in that great auditorium that seats 80,000 persons.

Sunday will be a big day at Bigelow. Mr. Lynn will be supported by a chorus choir. Miss Lollie Anderson has promised to sing, "The Ninety and Nine." Mr. Lynn will sing a selected number. Come early and secure a good seat. Rev. Bright will preach and conduct a "Say So" service. This is not a testimony meeting. Come and see!

Mr. Lynn will speak to the Junior church with Mr. L. T. Henderson in charge.

CHRIST IS COMING AGAIN

For the past three weeks the old gospel story of God's power to save by the Blood of His Son has been set forth from the pulpit of the First Baptist Church, Gallia and Waller streets. Crowds have been coming and as a result a large number have confessed Christ. The music rendered under the direction of Mr. Elmer Fetter has brought much favorable comment. Mr. Fetter is right at home when it comes to arranging music for special meetings. Much credit is due the choir for the loyal way in which they stood by night after night without fail.

Tomorrow night Pastor H. Stewart Tillis will preach on the "Second Coming of Christ." Announcements for the coming week will be made at the morning service. No meeting tonight.

First Baptist

There will be no services tonight at the First Baptist church, but pastor H. Stewart Tillis is looking forward to a great day Sunday, as part of the church revival campaign.

Last night's services were in charge of Rev. A. K. Murphy. His text was "And all of one accord they began to make excuses." Discussing the excuse of many people for avoiding the church, that it shelters too many hypocrites, he said "It is better to live in the church with them for a little while than in hell with them forever."

Five converts offered themselves at the altar and five others received baptism. Special music featured the meeting.

Salvation Army

Growing interest in the Salvation Army revival services features the closing of the first week's meetings. Several conversions have been noted, and the work under Staff Capt. William Shaw, who is a remarkable preacher is progressing nicely.

Splendid music is also a feature of the meetings. Capt. W. H. Phillips, who is in charge of the local post, is well pleased with the progress of the meetings.

Demands $10,000 Damages

Alleging that the left side of her face has been permanently distorted and her features marred and declaring it has caused her to suffer great agony and pain, both mentally and physically, Brittie Mowery demands $10,000 damages from Drs. Oscar Micklethwaite an dGeorge B. Brown in an action instituted in Common Pleas court today for alleged malpractice.

Plaintiff in her petition filed through Attorneys Blair and Blair says that last November she was suffering from an ailment and pain in the left side of her head and that the defendants, who, she claims, held themselves out as physicians and surgeons at the time, were employed by her for a reward, to attend on and administer medicine and treatment to and endeavor to cure her. She then recites that the defendants entered upon such employment and while so engaged in treating and administering to her, alleges they negligently and carelessly performed a surgical operation on the left side of her head, and in so doing negligently and carelessly cut and severed the nerves and muscles, she alleges, causing her to lose permanent partial hearing, partial sight of the left eye, and permanent control of the nerves on the left side of her face and tongue, to her damage in the sum claimed.

Son To Administer Estate

George Sheppard, North Moreland man, was before the Probate court yesterday on a complaint for failing to send his children to school and after hearing his story Judge Gilliland gave another chance and continued the hearing on his promise to cause his children to attend school regularly in the future.

Wife Asks For Divorce

For answer to the divorce suit of James Roscoe Zornes, Laura Zornes admits the marriage in July 1919, and the birth of their one child, now four years old, and then denies the charges contained in her husband's petition.

By way of cross petition the wife then proceeds to make some charges on her own account, accusing Zornes of neglect and cruelty, declaring that he failed to support her and their child properly and constantly quarreled with her without cause, frequently beat and threatened to kill her, besides, she complains, he encouraged her to become a wage earner and then would require her to give him the money she had earned. She further claims that Zornes falsely accused her of improper conduct with other men and asserts that she was obliged to leave him because of his alleged unbearable conduct towards hr.

Through Attorney Mark Crawford the wife asks that she may be given the divorce and alimony and custody of their child.

SOCIETY

Twenty-five members attended the March meeting of the Elizabeth Hard Sunday School Class of Trinity church Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Wells Crawford on Micklethwaite Road. The meeting opened with devotionals led by the president, Mrs. George Vandervort, and after the business session Miss Ruth Pray, chairman of the social hour, arranged a series of enjoyable games and clever stunts. At the close of the evening an attractively appointed green and white ice course was served with the favors and decorations in keeping with St. Patrick's Day. Mrs. Crawford was assisted by the Misses Nettie Pray, Ruth Pray and Alice Pray, Mrs. Ora Lee Deis and Mrs. N. E. Butler.

Mrs. Frank Appel was a charming hostess on Thursday evening when she entertained the members of the Philathea Class of Trinity church, taught by Miss Verna Graham. The early part of the evening was devoted to the business of the class, an interesting feature of which was a talk by Miss Erma Jenkins, a former member, who is now doing missionary work in, Latham, Pike county. Later a social time was enjoyed, during which a lovely refreshment course was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Verna Graham. A color scheme of green and white, in keeping with St. Patrick's Day, was carried out in the decorations and refreshments and also in the green and white mints.

Those present were the Misses Carol Patton, Hazel Clark, Mabel Eads, Rozzie Porter, Mary Hopkins, Genevieve Dupre, Gladys Goddard, Lorraine Smith, Mabel Tracy, Verna Graham and Erma Jenkins.

Mrs. J. B. Frostick, Mrs. Carl Smith, Mrs. R. J. Green, Mrs. Clarence Clausing, Mrs. Earl Kalb, Mrs. Theodore Bauer, Mrs. Bess Daum and son, Forest Davis.

To Teach Class

Following their usual custom of having a varied program of extraordinary speakers to present the lesson to the adult department of First Christian Bible school, the management of that department announces that they have secured for Sunday morning the services of E. E. Barnhart, an experienced Sunday school man, who for some years has been connected with the Ohio Sunday school association in the capacity of executive secretary for this district.

Mr. Barnharts' broad experience in Bible school work peculiarly fits him for the teaching of a big class and no doubt he will be given a great hering.

When asked to teach, he explained that he had been connected with the executive end of the work for so long that he might not be the best teacher that could be secured but that he would try.

Knowing him well, the officers did not hesitate to tell him they felt sure he would make good before the department and he very gladly accepted.

The opening of the big school will be devoted to praise and prayer service, a feature which always puts the pupil and teacher in tune for the hour's service.

Bazaar Is Success

Candy, drinks, fortune telling, side shows, dancing, 'n everything at the Junior Bazaar last night in the High School gym. The crowd numbered about two hundred and fifty and the Junior class netted about $150 to banquet nearly one hundred hungry Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet, to be held sometime near the close of the school year. This of course will not be nearly enough money but the Juniors are right there when it comes to earning kale and they will probably put on a plpay in the near future to get the rest of the money needed.

Confer Warrior Degree

Seneca Tribe of Red Men at its meeting Friday night in the wigwam on Market street conferred the Warrior degree on twenty candidates and next week the same class will be put through the paces of the Chief's degree. The social committee promises corned venison for this occasion which will be featured by a big feast.

A number of Chiefs from this city hit the trail today for Blue Creek where they will receive the Haymakers and 101 degrees tonight.

Bonds Are Sold

The Sinking Fund Trustees, at a meeting yesterday in the office of City Auditor J. Earl Chandler sold $119,000 worth of municipal bonds to Seasongood and Meyer, Cincinnati financial institution.

The bonds were sold at par value and accrued interest, at a premium of $8,327.85.

Other bidders were Wiel Roth and Irving, Cincinnati, $7,973.15; Provident Savings and Trust Company, Cincinnati, $7,976; M. S. Hill and Company of Cincinnati, $7,526.65; The Herrick company of Cincinnati, $6,958.00, and Breed Elliott and Harrison of Cincinnati, $6,353.

be effectively used to overhaul rum-runners. The appropriation for this purpose amounting to $13,000,000 is contained in another bill, which has yet to pass but since the expenditure has been authorized it is inevitable that the money will be provided.

The "drys" are pointing to the vote on the coast guard bill as an evidence of their continued strength in the House, where recently a 2.75 beer movement was launched with renewed zeal. The advocates of modification of the Volstead law, however, do not wish to place themselves on record as opposed to enforcement of laws on the statute books and the vote can not be taken as conclusive evidence of any change in the relative influence of the "wets" and the "drys." In the same way the casting of only a dozen votes in the Senate against the new treaty with Great Britain is not proof of any "dry" wave. Indeed if Congress had been asked to supplement the Volstead law so as to permit foreign ships to carry liquor under seal into American ports such a request would have been granted because the Supreme court decision last summer surprised Congress itself, which had no intention of interfering with cargoes in transit.

The permission now to be granted British vessels to carry liquors on board provided they are sealed in American ports permits them to open their bars three miles outside the United States both approaching and leaving American shores. This eliminates the embarrassment of trying to guage the thirst of passengers, and carrying only such an amount of liquor on the voyages to the United States as could be used up before reaching destination. When complying with American regulations heretofore the British ships have had no liquors homeward-bound, a circumstance that has not displeased the merchant marine which has to be "dry" going and coming and can not use its bar as an inducement to passenger traffic. There is no law, however, to prevent passengers who have taken liquor aboard from consuming the same or retaining it in their possession when once outside the three-mile limit, and conversely there is no regulation at present which prevents anyone boarding American vessels in European ports with all the liquor that can be carried. The risk in transporting any unconsumed liquors inside the three-mile limit into American territory rests with the individual and not with the shipping line.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Modern Methods in Potato Growing

Yesterday N. W. Glines, State Specialist in Vegetable Gardening at the Ohio State University, and County Agent W. F. Gahm visited the farms of George H. Selby and Frank J. Boynton at Haverhill to assist in preparations for potato planting.

At the Selby farm Mr. Glines is inaugurating the "sun sprouting" practice, which is a recent improvement in the preparation of potatoes for seed. Mr. Selby is intending to plant one acre with seed treated in this manner, using No. 2 Early Ohio Certified Seed, planting the potatoes whole, each piece weighing about two ounces. These potatoes are kept in a place of even temperature for about two weeks and frequently turned so that all tubers are permitted to sprout previous to planting.

It is claimed that "sun sprouting" will not only result in an earlier maturity of from one to two weeks, but will produce an additional yield of 12 to 30 bushels per acre. The results of the application of this new treatment of seed will be watched with intense interest by the potato growers of Scioto county, and should Mr. Selby achieve the results that have already been attained by many other farmers in other parts of Ohio and at the Ohio Experiment farms, there will no doubt be many requests next year for information concerning this improved method.

At the Frank J. Boynton farm preparations are under way to plant 100 bushels of Early Ohio Certified seed. In addition to the use of 1,000 pounds of 2-12-14 acid phosphate per acre Mr. Boynton intends to use the corrosive sublimate treatment of the seed before planting. By subjecting the seed to this treatment for about 30 minutes before planting, protection against scurf is assured.

Both Mr. Selby and Mr. Boynton intend to spray for the control of potato diseases.

Sedan Community Meeting

The Sedan Brass Band furnished plenty of inspirational music at the regular annual community meeting at Sedan Thursday night. At this meeting reports were heard from project leaders for 1923 activities, and the 1924 program was outlined. Otto Zoellner talked on co-operative marketing and presented the marketing plan under way in this county, which is being fostered by the Farm Bureau.

The project leaders reporting were James Mercer on Pasture Improvement; David McJunkin, Horticulture; C. R. Carter, Dairying; Mrs. Dora Campbell, Poultry; Miss Cordelia McJunkin, Poultry Club; Albert Dodds, Pig Club; Miss Sarah Jenkins, Clothing work; Mrs. Albert Dodds, Helath work.

Mr. Zoellner says that this is one of the few meetings where a fellow is welcomed by a brass band; but the reports heard from the project leaders show signs of great leadership and community spirit of co-operation. The leaders all have something to report and indicate a willingness to go forward in agricultural development.

The projects for 1924 with leaders include: Soils and Crops, C. R. Carter; Horticulture, David McJunkin; Poultry, Mrs. Dora Campbell; Pig Club, Albert Dodds; Health, Miss Sarah McJunkin; Clothing, Miss Cordelia McJunkin; Dairying, C. R. Carter.

Mr. C. D. Bradshaw was selected Community chairman and David McJunkin Secretary.

Future of Livestock Depends On Pastures

If Ohio counties with unproductive pastures expect to continue the production of livestock, pasture rejuvenation must take a leading part in their agricultural program.

In making this statement soils extension specialists at the Ohio State University point as an example to what happend in southeastern Ohio. From 1870 to 1910 the acreage in permanent pasture increased from 1,703,528 to 2,475,043, an increase of 46 per cent.

In 1870, 2.4 acres of pasture could support a unit of livestock. In 1910, it required 5.3 acres to support a similar unit.

To test their belief that acid phosphte applications are the first step in rejuvenating such pactures the soil specialists observed Hocking, Perry and Guernsey county pastures that had been treated with 2 tons of limestone, 400 pounds of acid phosphate, and 15 pounds of mixed seed per acre. The soil was also disked.

These treated acres averaged a yield of 4,846 pounds, while the untreated check plots averaged but 1,210 pounds.

In protein produced per acre treated plots averaged 708 pounds, untreated plots 117 pounds. In phosphorus in vegetation produced per acre, treated plots averaged 9.9 pounds, untreated plots 2.2 pounds. In calcium in vegetation produced per acre, treated plots averaged 48.0 pounds as against 7.6 pounds for the untreated plots.

County Tax Duplicate Exceeds 87 Millions

Ohio taxpayers in 1924 will pay their returns upon a grand duplicate of $10,918,868,619, according to figures of the state tax commission.

Of this amount, public utility companies operating in the state will pay on a total of $1,408,632,260, or 12.0 per cent. of the whole, which percentage is greater than any other form of property except real estate. A year ago the valuation placed upon the public utilities in Ohio was $1,394,591,530, which means that utility companies have had their valuations raised $14,040,730.

The following table showing the distribution of the taxable property in the state by counties, contains interesting as well as illuminating facts. Among these are:

That Cuyahoga county, with approximately one-sixth the population of the state, had a taxable valuation of one-fifth the entire duplicate in the state.

That the total tax valuations upon banks, corporationes and individuals in the state is less than that placed upon the properties of public utilities.

That the average tax rate in twenty-three counties is greater than the total average for the entire state, which is $21.32 per thousand dollars of valuation.

That Montgomery county has the highest average tax rate in the state and Darke county the lowest.

Scioto county's duplicate is divided into the following clasifications.

Public utilities	$15,125,110
Real estate	52,947,590
Banks	1,804,900
Corporations	8,653,230
Individuals	8,514,270
Total	$87,135,100

The average tax rate is 20.15.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation that Mr. Conrad Roth of Portsmouth, O., manager of Ohio State Life Insurance Company, a former member of the School Board, has accepted the chairmanship of the Public School Division of the Foundation for Portsmouth. Mr. Roth will at once begin the work of enlisting the support of the pupils and teachers of the schools of Portsmouth in the movement to establish Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson in Virginia, as a monument memorial, accessible to the public, to the Author of the Declaration of Independence.

Local Paving Bids Opened

COLUMBUS, March 15—(Special to The Daily Times.)—Bids were opened at the office of Highway Director L. A. Boulay Friday for the construction of one mile of road on the Otway-Henley road from its intersection with the towpath. In the advertisements for bids, half a mile of brick and an equal length of macadem construction was specified. Bids will be tabulated and a contract awarded in about a week.

The proposed paving will extend past the Country Club from the termination of the present paving on the towpath. It is expected that the brick will be laid past the entrance of the Country Club, and macadam then started in the direction of Otway.

OBITUARY

Louis C. Lauter

Louis Lauter, one of the city's oldest and most highly respected citizens passed away Saturday morning at 9:10, the final summons coming to him at his home, 526 Seventh street. He was a retired tinner, having for years conducted a tin shop on Market street between Second and Third. He had been ill many weeks, his death being attributed to infirmities of age. His venerable wife, Mrs. Minnie Yuenger Lauter, aged 79, is in very poor health and has been for some time.

Mr. Lauter was born in Strausburg, Germany, October 10, 1843 and came to Portsmouth when 18 years of age. For a short time he resided in Jackson O., but soon moved to Portsmouth, where he had since been an honored citizen. On February 3, 1866, Mr. Lauter was maried to Minnie Yuenger and to their happy union eight children were born, four of whom survive: Mrs. Frank Whigman, who made her home with her parents, Mrs. Robert Schlitz of Seventh street, Mrs. J. E. Starlin of Park avenue and Albert Lauter of 1017 Washington street. One sister also survives, Mrs. George Koerner of Seventh street. Mr. Lauter first engaged in the tin shop business in the Brushart property at Sixth and Chillicothe streets. Later, he moved to Market street, where he conducted a tin shop and stove store until he retired four years ago. Mr. Lauter learned the stovemaker's trade in the old Eberhardt foundry on Front street and understood the business from all angles. He was one of the city's most successful business men and the city loses an honored citizen in his death.

He was a great believer in the West End, where his passing will be especially mourned. Industrious, honest as the day is long, faithful to every trust reposed in him, Mr. Lauter leaves countless friends to mourn his departure. He was an affectionate husband and a devoted father and will be missed. He kept abreast with the times before taken ill and loved to converse about current events with his friends. He was a life long and active member of St. Mary's church, where the funeral services will be held. Mr. Lauter was also a member of the Knights of St. George.

Mrs. Ann E. Conkel

Mrs. Ann E. Conkel, 85 years old, died yesterday morning at the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. Ray Brown, Valley street, North Moreland addition. Her demise was due to infirmities of age superinduced by a severe injury which she sustained eight weeks ago when she suffered a broken hip in a fall.

She was the widow of William Conkel, pioneer farmer of Fallen Timber, Jefferson township, where she spent the greater part of her life. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and the burial will be in the Jacob's cemetery, Jefferson township.

The Collier Funeral

Funeral services were conducted at the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Collier of 3856 Rhodes avenue, at 7:30 o'clock last night, for Curtis Collier, three and one-half year old boy who died Thursday evening as a result of severe burns sustained that afternoon. The body was sent today to Carter City, Ky., for interment.

Miss Anna Vance

Miss Anna Vance, aged 22, daughter of Mr. and Mr William Vance, passed away at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home, 3140 Gallia street, after a brief illness.

Besides the parents, the following brothers and sisters survive: Mrs. Pertha Dameron, in West Virginia; Rebecca, Jackson, Samuel, Marshall and Marion, at home.

The body will be shipped on the early train Sunday morning to Breedon, W. Va., where burial will take place.

Colonel Holles, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, his native land, when war with Holland is declared. His Grace, of Buckingham hires Holles to abduct the actress, Sylvia Farquahrson. It is dark when the Colonel carries her to the house Buckingham has rented.

Upon their arrival Holles is horrified to see that Sylvia is an old sweetheart.

Buckingham and Holles engage in a duel. The servants of the Duke render the colonel unconscious.

When Buckingham attempts to embrace Sylvia, her dress falls from her throat, revealing a purple blotch token of the plague, which is spreading so rapidly in London. The Duke and his servants flee.

The colonel remains to nurse Sylvia and saves her life. He resolves to write her a long apology and sits through the night composing a manuscript.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

He sat back then in his tall chair, and stared straight before him, a man bemused, considering. Thus awhile. Then from an inner pocket of his doublet he drew a tasseled yellow glove that was slim and long and sorely rubbed and stained with age. He sighed, and a tear, wrung by the anguish of this renunciation from his hardened, adventurer's heart, fell on his hand.

Abruptly then he sat forward, and, snatching up the quill again, he scrawled at fierce speed on the foot of the last of the written sheets:

"Here is a glove that you bestowed on me in the long ago. I wore it, as your knight wearing his lady's favor in the lists of life, proudly by the right of your gift and my unsullied honor. For years it was an amulet to maintain that honor still unsullied against all trials and temptations. Now that it has failed of this purpose through my own cowardice and unworthiness, you may not wish me to retain it longer."

That manuscript—for it is hardly to be termed a letter—still survives. Its faded characters cover some thirty pages of paper that the centuries have tinted yellow. It has been—as you will surmise—in my possession. It has supplied me with more than the mere elements of this history, which without it could never have been written.

He folded the sheets together, enclosing the glove within them, wrapped a thread of silk about the package, and on the knot of this he made a disc of wax which he sealed with his thumb. He superscribed the package, quite simply, "To Miss Nancy Sylvester," and stood it there on the table against the stem of the candlebranch within view of the first person who should enter that room.

Next he drew forth his still well-filled purse, and emptied its contents on the table. One-half he replaced; of the other he made two packets, addressing one to Dr. Beamish and the other to Mrs. Dallows.

Softly then he pushed back his chair, and rose. He tiptoes to the window, and peered down into the shadows where the watchman kept his post, propped in a corner of the padlocked doorway. A sound of snoring came to inform Holles that, as he had reckoned, the fellow slept.

Holles went back. He took up his hat and cloak. Then, acting upon a sudden thought, he sought his baldric, and to the empty scabbard that was attached to it he fitted the slender dress rapier that Buckingham had left behind him.

Having passed the baldric over his head and settled it on his shoulder, he blew out the candles, and a moment later he was at the window again.

He scarcely made a sound as he straddled the window-sill; then very gently he let himself down, until he hung at full length, his toes not more than three feet above the kidney stones of the dark, empty, silent street. He dropped very lightly, and, as he was wearing no spurs, he made practically no noise at all. At once he set off in the direction of Sermon Lane.

Nevertheless, the evasion of Holles had not gone as entirely unperceived as he imagined. Slight as had been the noise he made, yet it had reached the window of the room immediately above, and by that window—which was the window of Nancy's room—sat Nancy, driven to that vigil by thoughts that rendered sleep impossible.

Her attention aroused by those furtive sounds below, she had leaned far out from the casement an dpeered down into the darkness. She had heard the soft thud of feet as Holles dropped to the street, and immediately thereafter the patter of his retreating footsteps. Very faintly she thought she made out at the same time the receding figure of a man, a deeper shadow amid shadows. But however little she may have seen with the eyes of the flesh, she saw all with the eyes of her imagination. She was on the point of crying out, but suddenly checked herself, fearful of rousing the watchman and setting afoot a pursuit which, if successful, might be attended by direct consequence for Holles.

With trembling, fumbling fingers she kindled a light. Then with a rug wrapped about her over her night-rail, she made her way below. Thus she descended the stairs for the first time, and as she went she blamed herself bitterly—in her convistion that she would find things as she feared—for not having earlier taken this step and gone t oseek him who remained so obdurately absent.

When on the following morning an anxious Mrs. Dallow entered the dining-room in fearful quest of her charge, she found her there, at once to her infinite relief and infinite distress. Nancy sat on the daybed under the open window. Beside her was a candlestick in which the single candle had been burnt to the socket. about her the floor was strewn with the sheets of Holles' letter, which had slipped from her nerveless fingers.

CHAPTER XXV.

Home.

Out of concern for her charge, Mrs. Dallows at once dispatched the watchman for Dr. Beamish, and, when the physician arrived some little while later, she acquainted him with the Colonel's evasion and the consequent partially stunned condition in which Miss Sylvester appeared to move.

The good doctor, who had come to conceive some measure of affection for those two, rooted, perhaps, in a certain pity which their mysterious, but obviously unhappy, relations aroused in him, went at once in deepest distress to seek Miss Sylvester.

"This is terrible, my dear," he said, as he took her hands. "What can have driven that unhappy man to so . . . so unfortunate a course?"

"He must be sought. You will order search to be made for him?" she cried.

He sighed and sorrowfully shook his head: "There is no need for me to order that. My duty compels me to make his evasion known. Search for him will follow; but, should he be found, it may go very hard with him; there are rigorous penalties."

So, rejecting the chance to ease by confidence the burden that she carried, she continued to move, white-faced and listless, under the load of it during the two remaining days of her detention. Nor did the doctor come to her again until that third morning, when he was once more accompanied by the examiner, who presented her and her nurse-keeper each with a certificate of health that permitted their free departure.

Bearers were procured for her, the watchman himself volunteering to act as one of them, and the chair in which she had been carried thither, which had been [illegible] in the house itself, was [illegible] again at her [illegible] away.

"[illegible] are you going?" the doctor [illegible].

They were [illegible] in the doorway of the house, she with her light hooded mantle of [illegible] drawn over her [illegible], the chair standing in the sunlight, waiting to receive her.

"Why, home. Back to my [illegible]," she answered simply.

"Where is your home?" he asked [illegible].

[illegible]

[illegible]

He smiled through his owlish spectacles, and in silence patted the little hand he held; then he made shift to lead her forward to her chair.

But a duty yet remained her. In the shadows of the hall behind lingered still the kindly Mrs. Dallows, almost tearful at this parting from the sweet charge for whom she had conceived so great a kindness. Miss Sylvester ran back to her.

"Keep this in memory of one who will never forget her debt to you and never cease to think of you fondly." Into her hand she pressed a clasp of brilliants that she had taken from her bodice—a thing of price far beyond the gold that Holles had left behind in payment for the nurse's service. Nancy took the kindly woman in her arms and kissed her. Both were in tears when Nancy turned away and ran out to the waiting sedan.

The bearers—the watchman, and the fellow he had fetched to assist him—took up the chair and swung away toward Paul's hains. The little black figure of the doctor strutted beside it, swinging the long red wand that did him the office of a cane, whilst Mrs. Dallows, standing at the door of the housd in Knight Ryder street, watched it out of sight through a blur of tears.

Thus at last they came to Salisbury Court and to the house that Nancy had indicated. And here at once Dr. Beamish saw that his worst fears were realized.

Its door hung wide, and the rust lay thick upon the window-panes, two of which were broken. Miss Slyvester, having alighted from her chair, stood looking up, arrested by the unusual aspect of the place, and chilled by a nameless dismay.

They entered the gloomy vestibule, where dried leaves swept thither by the winds cracked under their feet, and thence they began the ascent of a narrow staircase on the baluster of which there was a mantle of dust.

THE BEARERS SWUNG AWAY TOWARD PAUL'S CHAINS.

Better Than Calomel

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edward's determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

If you wish t' reach th' foremost ranks in th' noble profession o' journalism, I admonish you t' heed well th' advice o' one who fought hard an' turned gray in th' game o' mouldin' th' public mind. Stick t' th' follerin' hard an' fast rules an' you're bound t' succeed beyond th' dreams o' avarice or I may say cupidity.

Beware o' split infinitives an' polluted adverbs.

Never use a short & in mentionin' Mr. an' Mrs. So an' So.

Never use th' expression "loss o' valuable jewels," unless they're worth over $15.

Never say someone wuz fatally hurt unless they're goin' t' die.

Never permit a person t' suicide. Say they committed suicide," unless th' wife is suspected.

Never leave anything t' th' imagination, fer imaginations are few an' widely scattered.

Never say a man returned t' his place o' business. Say, rather, that he returned t' th' place where he conducts business when there is any.

Never use th' expression, "wins fair bride," unless th' bride is fair, an' there has been a lively scramble fer her.

Never color news. It's cheatin' just th' same as wearin' a toupee or dyein' a mustache.

In writin' up elopements an' accidents, allus be sure t' spell th' women folks' names correctly, fer nothin' makes 'em madder than havin' ther names balled up.

In reportin' a fire, remember buildin's have no guts an' that flames never belch.

Beware o' overworkin' "charmin' hostess."

JACK FROST JUST CAN'T GET A RISE OUT OF 'EM down at St. Petersburg, Fla. Northerners, whose business cares or low pocketbooks compelled them to stay at home, still are shivering while March winds howl and sigh. But these young ladies are enjoying all the comforts and fun of the good old summer days. No wonder all the sheiks have been crowding the windows for tickets to Florida.

YES, THEY ARE BEGINNING TO SHOW OFF THEIR SPRING DUDS. The Fifth Avenue promenade is in full sway in little ol' New York. Recent warm weather has brought thousands of Gothamites out for their little strolls along America's most famous thoroughfare. The traffic cops are getting busier every day. This is but a section of the maelstrom of humanity that's momentarily jogging along past the "roaring 40s."

THEY'RE BRINGING YOUR MEALS RIGHT TO YOUR DOOR in Germany. Rolling kitchens, once used by the kaiser's troops, are feeding thousands of unemployed and their families in Germany this winter. The work is supported by the government, with foreign aid—chiefly American. In addition to these kitchens, large dining halls have been established in the cities where starving women and children may come for food.

HAT, WHERE ART THOU GOING? Trying to run away with winsome little Celia? But on second guess, one feels Celia Montalvan can handle herself pretty well. The "charro" is only one of the many bonnets she wears in her acts. Yes, Celia's an actress. She's considered one of the most beautiful women on the Mexican stage.

LEST WE FORGET! This beautiful life-sized bronze figure of a Yank doughboy has been erected in Memorial Park in the little town of Manitou, Colo., at the foot of Pike's Peak. It is mounted on a 20-ton boulder. It is a memorial to America's heroic dead.

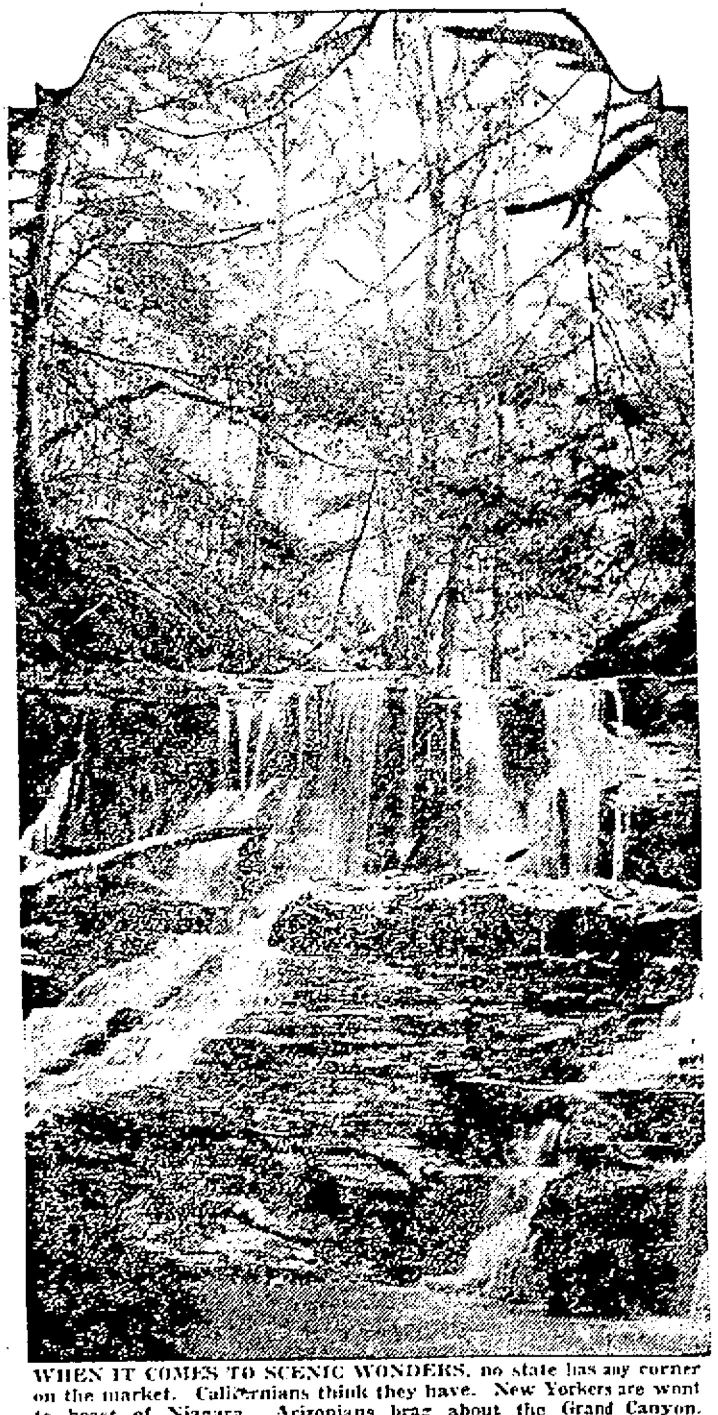
INDIANS BETTER LOOK OUT! This young man's on their trail. The oversized chapeau—it belongs to his father—certainly bolsters up his confidence. You ought to see the way he goes after the "wild animals" that still abound near his home in Glacier National Park. Take a good look at the "tiger" he's just captured.

AN ANGEL OF MERCY! Chinese residents of Tokyo seemed rather neglected after the great earthquake of last autumn, so Dr. M. C. Crane of Los Angeles began looking after their medical wants. And the sufferers, who credit him with saving 853 lives, have expressed their appreciation in presenting him with a loving cup.

MORE FAME FOR EMPORIA. There's a certain editor who's put Emporia, Kas., on the map. And here's one citizen who's going to see that it doesn't topple off. Her name is Thelma Hill. She's a movie bathing beauty out in Hollywood.

REX IS A CORKING GOOD PRESS AGENT—at least when it comes to Strongheart's movies. He nearly tore the house down when his master, J. Ray Murry, critic for a film trade paper, took him to see a private showing of "The Love Master" in Chicago. He barked applause vociferously time and again. Signs requesting silence meant absolutely nothing to him.

THERE ARE FLAPPERS IN HOLLAND, TOO! Our American girls aren't putting anything over on this pretty red-cheeked Dutch maiden. She's all dressed up in her Sunday best. All the sheiks of her native town are vieing for a chance to walk home from church with her.



WHEN IT COMES TO SCENIC WONDERS, no state has any corner on the market. Californians think they have. New Yorkers are wont to boast of Niagara. Arizonians brag about the Grand Canyon. Pennsylvanians don't do a lot of talking, but they point with pride to Gravel Bar Falls, near Vandergrift. And they have reason for so doing. They form a pretty setting for any artist.

Five Minute Schedule During Rush Hours On Main Street Car Lines Starts Monday

Five minute service on the Main line during the busier hours of the day will be put into effect Monday, March 17, according to announcement made yesterday by H. G. Bonner, vice-president and general manager of the Portsmouth Public Service Co., new owners of the Portsmouth street railway system.

Five minute service will be operated between the hours of 5 and 8:30 a. m. and 2:30 and 6 p. m. This service schedule will be in effect from Massie street to Oak avenue. During other hours, the usual 10 minute schedule will be observed.

This service, Mr. Bonner stated, is a fore-runner of other improvements to be made in the local system. "We are hopeful," the manager said, "of making other improvements in the near future, although nothing definite in this regard can be announced at this time."

The "speeding up" of service during the main hours will be of real service to workers on their way to and from places of employment. Not only will it conserve time for them, the company points out, but it will also relieve traffic congestion at the downtown corners, where during the evening hours particularly, at the time of closing of offices and factories, there is generally much conjestion.

The improvement is the first of a general nature, to be made in the system since it was taken over about two weeks ago by the Portsmouth Public Service Co., from the original owners, the Portsmouth Street Railway & Light Co. The system is operated under supervision of the Henry L. Doherty Co., of New York, which operates a number of public utilities in several states.

Mr. Bonner, the new vice president and general manager, came to Portsmouth about two weeks ago and took over the operation of the local company. At the time of his coming here, the new general manager announced that the company would make such improvements from time to time as the system's revenue would permit, and the announcement of five minute service is the first step along this line.

At a meeting of council this week day night, a letter from Mr. Bonner was read, in which he stated that after a conference with the Doherty interests in New York, which he expected to hold in the near future, he would confer with council regarding the street improvement program.

There is now before council petitions to resurface Second street from Chillicothe to the Scioto river bridge. This improvement will probably go forward in the near future, it was intimated about the city building yesterday. The improvement will involve rebuilding of the street railway road bed, resurfacing of the street, widening of the street at the "Point" and probably some solution to the problem at the "Point," presented by the slipping of the river bank at this place. Recommendation was made at the last meeting of council by Director of Service Charles Wilson, that this Point be abandoned, from Scioto street east. The matter is in the hands of the street committee for investigation.

The widening of Second street at the approach to the bridge seems assured, since city property there has been vacated by private corporations which had been occupying it, due to a misunderstanding over title to the ground.

Strollers To Present Real Play Here

The fact that the Strollers Dramatic Club of Ohio State University, is producing "Magnolia," a Booth Tarkington play speaks for itself. This is the first time the play has been shown in Ohio and it should be a great success with packed houses both nights, when it is shown at the High School Auditorium March 18 and 19, under the auspices of the James Dickey Post 23.

The play was originally written for Leo Carillo, who played the leading role of Tom Rumford, Edwin Judy, Ohio State quarterback, who is to take this part was chosen easily the leader in the tryouts. In general he bears a striking resemblance to Carillo. He is the same general type as Tom Rumford, not only in size but in Facial appearance. The play was written of the period 1840 and was described by a critic as a "comedy of fire-eating southerners and a hero who is too gentle, sensative and peaceable to live."

In the original cast of "Magnolia" which presented the play in New York, there were such stars as Ethel Wilson, as "Mexico," John Harrington as "Captain Blackie"; and Malcom Williams as "General Orlando Jackson," the cold blooded Southerner.

To Mark Streets for Safety Campaign

Safety Director George Koerner and Police Chief Rome Arthur have completed plans, it was announced today, for the marking of streets preparatory to the launching of a campaign in the hope of relieving the traffic situation and bettering traffic conditions in general throughout the city.

The officials state that the work of marking off the streets will start next week, if the weather permits, and the markings, it was explained, will be so arranged as to give motorists complete directions on the question of right-of-way and parking if they follow the white lines.

The chief and safety director are heartily in accord with the "A. B. C." safety campaign, now being conducted by the Exchange Club under the direction J. Frost Davis, and are co-operating in every way.

John Weghorst, prominent Buena Vista citizen, was in the city yesterday on business. He is the father of Al. Weghorst, genial president of city council.

Special Music at Trinity

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson LeVan, of Easton, Pa., the celebrated violin virtuoso who filled the position so acceptably of assisting artist in the concert at Trinity church on Thursday evening of this week will be heard in this city again Sunday evening when she will take violin obligato parts in the instrumental numbers in the service at Trinity church. Mrs LeVan demonstrated her mastery of the violin on Thursday evening. She possesses a brilliant technique and a warmth of tonal expression that is very exceptional. Mrs. LeVan's husband is a minister in Easton, Pa. She is a sister of Mrs. O. J. Deitzler, soprano soloist at Trinity. Mrs. Deitzler accompanied her sister, Mrs. LeVan, on the piano at the concert Thursday. Mrs. LeVan was fortunate in having so able an accompanist to support her in the difficult numbers on that concert program. It is seldom that you find two members of the same family who are so exceptionally talented in music as Mrs. Deitzler and her sister Mrs. LeVan. The music lovers of Portsmouth will be glad to have another opportunity of hearing these talented ladies in the evening service next Sunday at Trinity where Mrs. Deitzler will sing, "O Divine Redeemer." accompanied by Mrs. LeVan on the violin.

GREB SEEKS MATCH

Presbyterian Churches Will Hold Two Week's Revival

Plans have been completed for the opening of two weeks of simultaneous evangelistic services in the three Presbyterian churches of Portsmouth from March 18 to 30.

Services in the First Presbyterian church, Rev. William H. Gleiser, pastor, will be conducted by Rev. Warren, J. Conrad D. D., of Willamsport, Pa.

In the Central Presbyterian church, Rev. G. M. Howerton, pastor, Rev Henry A. White D. D. of Youngstown, Ohio, will be the preacher.

At the Second Presbyterian church, Rev. Francis M. Fox, D. D. of Philadelphia, Pa., will be the speaker. Rev. William H. Phelps of Battlecreek, Mich., pastor-elect of the Second church, will not be in his new field until about the first of May, it was stated yesterday, and so the campaign in this church has been arranged solely by the Elders.

Services in the three Presbyterian churches will be held each evening at seven o'clock, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Services will also be held on the same dates in the Presbyterian church of Jackson, Rev. J. C. White, pastor, Rev. Murray C. Reiter, D. D. moderator of the Presbytery of Pittsburg will be the preacher.

Bishop Fout at U. B. Sunday

One of America's most illustrious churchmen will be in the city Sunday and occupy the pulpit at the morning worship period at ten-thirty at the First United Brethren Church, corner of Seventh and Gay streets, and the pastor and congregation extend a cordial invitation to the public in general to share this hour of fellowship and worship. Bishop Fout is most forceful in his pulpit pronouncements and a speaker of rare eloquence. He is a Virginian by birth and a typical southern gentleman of the cultured tyle.

Bishop Fout resides in Indianapolis, Indiana, and his episcopal area is known as the Northwest District embracing the states of Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Superintending such a large area the Bishop rarely finds opportunity to extend his ministries to churches other than those of his own district. The annual meeting of the Boards of Home Missions and Church Erection, in the handsome new First United Brethren church, at Chillicothe, March 16-18, makes it possible for Bishop Fout to come this way and grace the pulpit of the First U. B. church, Sunday morning at ten thirty. The church choir will sing Harry Rowe Shelley's wonderful anthem, "Hark, Hark My Soul," with Mrs. W. T. Sowers and Mrs. E. H. Dailey taking the solo parts, and Mrs. Dailey will sing as an offertory solo, "Gloria," by Buzzi-Peccia.

At the evening evangelistic service at seven o'clock the usual spirited congregational singing assisted by the chorus choir, piano and organ will create an atmosphere that will be inspiring and uplifting to all

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Doly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth Ohio.

Dear Dollie Wise—I read your column in the paper every night and you sure do give good advice. Now Dollie, I want to know if you can tell me why it is that every man likes black hair. If it keeps up the girls who have light hair will have to color it black to keep a man. Dollie, I am twenty-three years old and I have never met a man yet who was not always talking about black hair, and I have been talking to a man for two years and every time one of my sisters comes around or a woman with black hair he just sits and talks about how pretty they are. Dollie, would you advise me to quit this man or not. I am a decent and respectable girl, and Dollie, don't you think a man that talked to a girl that long should get her a Christmas present? Now Dollie, please give me your advice as soon as you can. Dollie what do you think of a man like that?

BROWN EYES.

I'm glad to know that men admire brunettes, as I always thought that they "fell" for the blondes—peroxide, strawberry and otherwise. If you are a blonde I imagine they are just kidding you when they tell you they like girls with black hair. The thing for you to do is to begin to admire men who are just the opposite from the ones you are talking with. You can get even with them that way if you care to. Speaking of presents, if the man you have in mind is supposed to be your steady, I think he should have given you a small remembrance for Christmas. If you think he is a tightwad and not short on funds you might as well turn him down. If you have already wasted two years of your perfectly good time on him, without results, I think he should talk business, instead of spending all his time talking about black haired beauties, don't you?

Dear Dolly—Please tell me if there is a paper published in Washington C. H. If so what is its name and how could I get a copy of it?

TIMES READER.

The Daily Herald is published at Washington C. H., and you may obtain a copy of it by writing to the circulation manager.

Dear Dolly—Can you please tell me where I can get a book on embroidery. All the stitches and how to do them. I have been embroiderying and have come upon some stitches I do not know.

THANKS.

You may get a book on embroidery at the art department of the local stores or at one of the book stores.

Dear Dolly—I would like to know what the fifteenth wedding anniversary is and what gifts would be suitable?

HAPPILY MARRIED.

The fifteenth wedding anniversary is known as the crystal wedding anniversary and all kinds of glass and crystal gifts are appropriate.

Dear Dolly—I am considered good looking and have a boy friend many years my senior. I like him much better than the boys in High School, but in going to and from school parties, I either have to go by myself or go with some girl. Should I do this or go with boys my own age? I do not care for the boys and therefore do not encourage them, but when the other girls talk about their regulars I feel out of it, because my friend works out of town and only comes to see me once a month.

SWEET SIXTEEN.

You are too young to go exclusively with someone older than yourself. In fact, you are too young to go with boys to any extent. School parties are an exception. I think, therefore, that you should widen your circle of friends and go to parties with boys from school when they invite you.

Oranges and Grapefruit 49c per Pk. Schaefer.—Advertisement-tf.

The New Century Club assembled in the K. of P. Hall Friday afternoon for one of the most enjoyable programs of the year. Seventy-five members were in attendance. Mrs. B. F. Royse was chairman of the program, the musical numbers of which were arranged by Mrs. R. G. Gilmore. The program opened with two beautiful organ numbers by Miss Anna Cramer—(a) Overture—Rossini; (b) Nocturne—Richards.

This was followed by an excellent paper by Miss Grace Young, "Our City Library, Its Needs and Source of Supply."

Another excellent musical number was a trio composed of a flute by Mr. Walter Gableman, a violin by Mrs. Russell Becker and Miss Cramer at the organ. These three talented musicians gave the "Serenade" by Titl. Mrs. James Breece delighted the club with a vocal solo and was accompanied by Miss Cramer at the piano. Mrs. A. C. Turner of Sciotoville gave an interesting talk on "A Traveling Library for Scioto County." This talk was followed by another trio. Miss Anna Cramer, organ, Miss Louise Jones piano and Mrs. Russell Becker violin. Their number was "Meditation" by Metzhe.

Mrs. Ralph Marting gave a short talk from actual experience, using as her subject "A Library Story Hour."

Mrs. I. Quasser was chairman of the social hour and was assisted by Mrs. Howard Sellards, Mrs. B. F. Royse, Mrs. Thomas Nichols, Mrs. Maurice Haywood, Mrs. Emma Frowine and Mrs. Edgar Poffenberger. Mrs. Thomas Nichols, Mrs. Emma Frowine and Mrs. Edgar Poffenberger were active hostesses.

The next meeting will be thrown open to all club women of the city, and an out-of-town speaker will appear on the program.

A special musical program has Mrs. Harry Uhl of Schenectady, N. Y., was a guest for the afternoon.

* * *

The Home Culture Club will meet Thursday evening with Mrs. Harry Jordan, 1810 Eleventh street, with Mrs. Katherine Ressinger as the assistant hostess.

An interested number of relatives and friends attended the Program-Recital, presented in the lecture hall of the Public Library last evening by a group of readers and impersonators, pupils in expression of Miss Pearle V. Eichelberger. These young artists were assisted by Miss Rita Stedman, at the piano, a pupil of Miss Florence Wynn of Piketon, and Mr. Leon Stedman, on the violin, pupil of Professor Wm. Burkel.

The guests were greeted at the door by the Misses Margaret and Martha Cross, who graciously welcomed them. A dainty trio in the persons of the Misses Marguerite Millar, Pauline Watkins and Mary Kathryn Parry directed the guests to their chairs.

The Misses Nellie Ails and Dorothy Cline, the announcers of the evening, introduced each reader in such a charming manner as to win praise from many of their hearers.

The rendition of the program was perfect, each reader and impersonator portraying the chosen character so completely as to call forth hearty applause. The stage presence of all, even to the youngest of the readers, was unusually fine and in their dainty frocks and arranged costumes they made a picture long to be remembered by the guests of the evening.

The program as presented follows:

"How-do-you-do?" — Miss Ellen Leah Jacobs.

"When Mother Joins the Union"—Miss Roena Arthurs.

"Everybody Hustle"—Master Philip Hummel.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THE TRIAL OF THE TIN SOLDIER

Mister Fuzz Wuzz took a hammer and rapped loudly.

"You may go on with the trial," declared Mister Fuzz Wuzz, the pipe-cleaner man, in a loud voice.

Nancy and Nick wondered who was to go on with the trial, but by and by the patent-leather cat got up, pulled down his red jacket and stroked his whiskers, and said soberly: "Ladies and gentlemen, I am here to take the part of the tin soldier. He didn't mean to run over the peanut boy and break his nose."

"I object!" barked the rubber dog, "and please don't get me excited or I shall whistle through the top of my head. Perhaps he didn't mean to do it, but he did it just the same and I demand that he be punished."

Mister Fuzz Wuzz took a hammer and rapped loudly. "Order!" he called.

The cat and the dog and all the rest of the Doofunnies became quiet at once.

"I just wanted to say," said the cat switching his long tail, "that the tin soldier never touched the peanut boy. It was his horse."

"Then," spoke up the rubber dog quickly, "Let's punish the horse. I insist that somebody be punished for breaking the peanut boy's nose."

"We shall call witnesses," said the cat with dignity. "I can show you that neither the horse nor the soldier were to blame. Will you please to tell your story, Mr. Tin Soldier."

"Certainly, sir!" said the tin soldier, riding up on his horse. "But, if you please, I'm a general, sir!"

"Tell your story, please, general," corrected the cat seating himself with dignity and smoothing his white neck ruffle.

"That sounds much better," said the general. "It was this way. I was riding along Candy Street in Doofunny Land, when, without a bit of warning, the wooden waddle duck came rushing along as though he had been shot out of a gun. My horse shied to one side and then I heard a crunching. That's the first I knew of the peanut boy being anywhere near me. It was his nose that was being crunch."

"Hear! Hear!" cried the patent-leather cat, springing up. "It is the wooden waddle duck who should be on trial. It was all his fault!"

"Please call the duck!" ordered Mister Fuzz Wuzz.

"Good!" said the dog, and he sat down and everybody else sat down, and the wooden waddle duck waddled up with a great clatter.

"Quack! Quack!" he declared. "What do you wish me to say?"

"Tell how you happened to scare the tin-soldier's, ahem, the general's horse," commanded Mister Fuzz Wuzz.

"Sure I will, your honor," said the duck. "But if anyone could have been more scared than I was, he was a dandy."

"Don't say 'dandy' here," ordered Mister Fuzz Wuzz.

"Beg your pardon, I'll say he was in a bad way, then," said the duck.

"Don't say, 'I'll say' in this court," thundered Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "No slang is allowed."

"Is this a trial or a grammar class, please?" mewed the cat.

Nancy and Nick forgot where they were and laughed.

"Order!" thundered Mister Fuzz Wuzz so loudly that everybody jumped.

HELPED HER IN EVERY WAY

So Writes Mrs. Trombley of Sharon, Vt., Concerning Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sharon, Vermont.—"I was weak and run-down, had a tired feeling and bearing-down pains. I saw an advertisement in the newspaper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began taking it. It has stopped these bearing-down pains and other bad feelings, and has helped me in every way. I have so much faith in the Vegetable Compound that I keep it on hand all of the time and recommend it whenever I have the opportunity."—Mrs. LEWIS TROMBLEY, Sharon, Vermont.

Glad to Help Others

"I had pains in my back and sides for many months, and my work would have to be left undone at those times. My sister told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing her, so I tried it, and from the third bottle I was well and every one thought I looked better. I am glad to help others regain their health, and you may use my testimonial."—MABEL HARTMANN, 1824 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — THE MAGIC TUBE

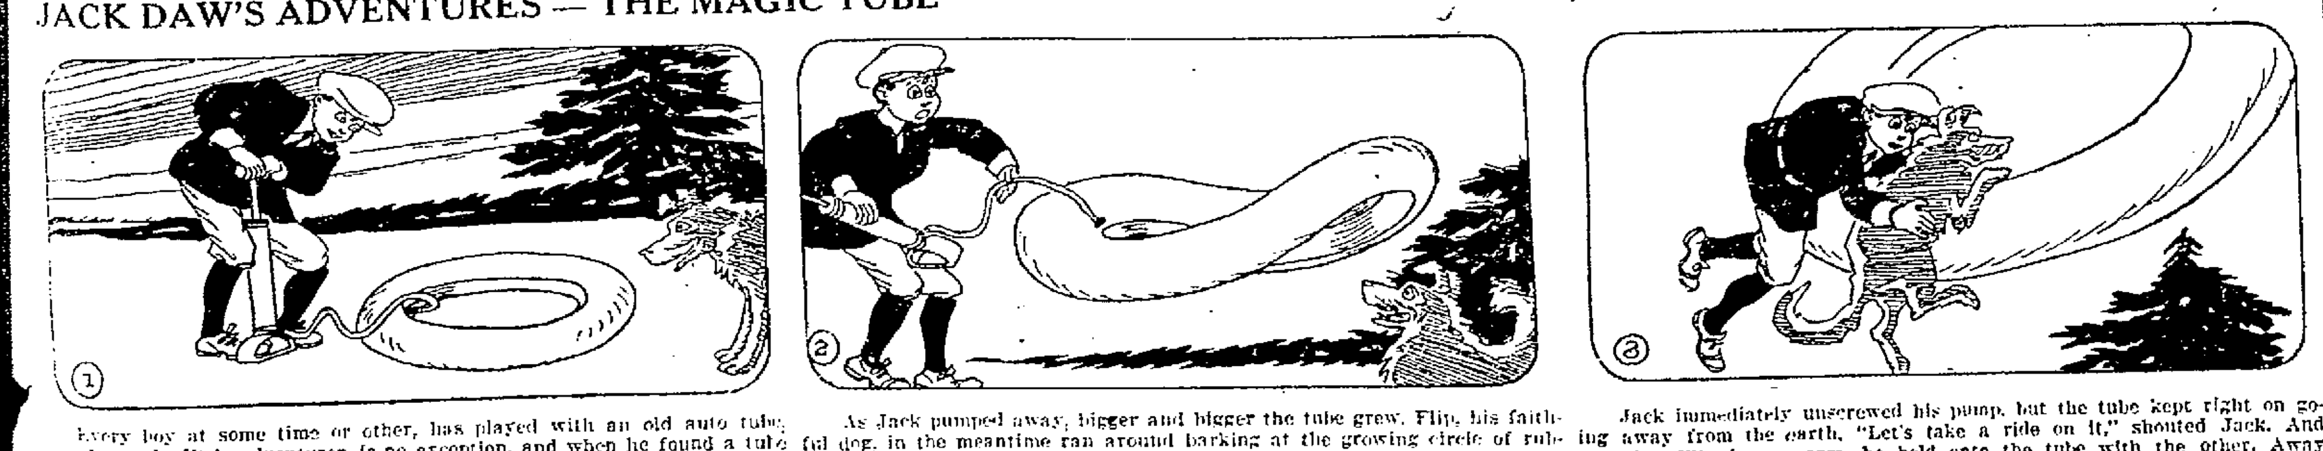
BY ELTON



Every boy at some time or other, has played with an old auto tube. Daw, the little adventurer, is no exception, and when he found a tube in the road he decided to try pumping it up. Much to his surprise, when he pumped air into it the air stayed. The tube didn't leak.

As Jack pumped away, bigger and bigger the tube grew. Flip, his faithful dog, in the meantime ran around barking at the growing circle of rubber. "Gee," shouted Jack, "this is big enough for a big truck." And just then the tube started rising slowly up into the air.

Jack immediately unscrewed his pump, but the tube kept right on going away from the earth. "Let's take a ride on it," shouted Jack. And grabbing Flip in one arm, he held onto the tube with the other. Away they went, sailing through the air and up into the trees. (Continued.)

FANS ARE ASSURED REA L GLOVEFEST MONDAY NIGHT

The boxing fans are sure going to have one grand old glovefest Monday night at the Winter Garden, and it will probably be the largest crowd that has attended an indoor boxing show in many months. Bill Harris says he was surprised at the number of new faces that are buying tickets for his Monday night show and he is certain that they are not going to be disappointed.

If Frankie Susnell goes after Benny Levy like he went after Soldier Mellow in Chillicothe. Thursday night the fans are surely going to see some action. Susnell was not himself when he fought Baxter and was quite weak from taking off so much weight in so short a time. From now on he will box around 125 pounds and will rest the entire day of the bout instead of working until noon at the steel plant as he did when he fought Baxter.

Benny Levy and his manager. Bob Uriche, were ringside spectators at the bouts in Chillicothe Thursday evening. They drove up from Cincinnati apparently to get a few slants on Frankie.

From the advance dope the second main-go of the evening which will be between Eddie Grant and Gene LaRue should bristle with action. Earl Butler, who was also in Chillicothe, told Eddie to watch LaRue as the little Canuck usually shoots off his chair at the opening bell and starts popping before his opponent hardly leaves the chair. Eddie says he is going to put the old sleeper on Gene if he comes tearing into him as he likes boxers of that particular style. And besides it's on St. Patrick's night and Grant is the only Irishman on the card. Erin go bragh.

Principals Mentioned in Secret Service Man's Story Make Sweeping Denials

Daugherty Issued Denial

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—With the direct testimony of Roxie Stinson and Gaston B. Means bursting alternately into numerous sensational explosions and no immediate prospect of cross examination at the senate's inquiry into his administration, Attorney General Daugherty has changed his mind about making "no public statement in connection with the hearings until the completion of the committee's work."

Four statements were issued at the department of justice last night after the committee had made a start on the testimony of Means without completing that of Miss Stinson, the divorced wife of Jesse W. Smith, "bumper and friend" of the attorney general, who committed suicide here a year ago. Means unfolded with apparent relish a long line of startling statements comparable to the amazing beginning of Miss Stinson's story, which was interrupted because she was ill and he had not finished when yesterday's session ended.

In one of the four statements, Mr. Daugherty made general and detailed denial of statements and inferences in Miss Stinson's testimony, which he described as "wholly incompetent," and he declared Means' story likewise would receive "immediate attention" when concluded.

The other statements included a letter addressed to Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, "prosecutor" in the inquiry, relating to department activities in prize fight film cases and took up in detail the alleged attempt to get clemency through Smith for a relative of Joe Weber.

The attorney general described Miss Stinson as "a disappointed woman who blames me because her divorced husband did not make her sole legatee under his will" and asserted that "on several occasions it has been intimated by persons ostensibly acting for Miss Roxie Stinson that for a consideration her silence could be delivered, all of which deliberate and serious attempts at blackmail—have been absolutely and unconditionally rejected."

Taking up details of Miss Stinson's testimony, Mr. Daugherty denied any interest in the "promotion of some western oil company" by Colonel James G. Darden or any speculation to profit from illegal showing of prize fight films. He also denied that Smith had ever approached him on a question of clemency for a federal prisoner and added that a relative of Weber had been refused a pardon "on my recommendation." With reference to the film allegations, he said, "Senator Wheeler has in his possession a full report of the activities of the department of justice showing that the law was enforced most strenuously and he also had a list of the parties arrested, prosecuted and fined, furnished him under date of February 19, 1924, at his request, which he has withheld since that time."

Senator Wheeler had not made up his mind last night whether to continue his examination today or resume that of Miss Stinson.

Mention by Means of Secretary Mellon's name in connection with "certain permits for certain purposes" and his assertion that "the president wanted the information in regard to him to catch him, and we caught him" was described later by the treasury head as "merely vicious piffle."

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(By the A. P.)—When asked about Gaston B. Means' testimony before the Daugherty committee today regarding whiskey permits, Secretary Mellon said he had no comment to make.

"It is merely vicious piffle," added the secretary.

Japs Deny Accusation

TOKIO, March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Denial that any payments of money ever had been given to Gaston B. Means in an effort to halt prosecution of the Standard Aircraft Company, as Gaston B. Means testified yesterday in Washington, was made today by the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, through its principal office here.

Records bearing on the Standard Aircraft matter were destroyed in the earthquake disaster last September, asserted Yunosuke Yasukawa, managing director of the Mitsui company.

He declared, however, that Mitsui officials in Japan knew nothing concerning the alleged payment of $100,000 to Means and believe it is not possible that such a payment ever was made.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(By The A. P.)—The internal revenue bureau which has supervision of the prohibition bureau, has no information of the reported investigation by Gaston B. Means into liquor withdrawals by government officials, Commissioner Blair declared today.

The commissioner made this statement in reply to a question by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, during the session of the special senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau. The commissioner expressed great surprise at the question and denied emphatically that the bureau had had any connection with the inquiry or in fact any knowledge of it.

lowed in each of the other states? and this was done in 36 states?"

Quimby said it was his belief this was the plan but there were "only 22 or 25 states."

Told Buyers How To Do It

"Whenever you sold a picture you told the buyer what lawyer to see in that state?"

"Yes."

"And you knew if he went to that lawyer he would be fined and then allowed to go ahead?"

"That was my understanding."

"Didn't you know the department of justice was a department of easy virtue?" Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, asked after telling the witness not to dodge questions.

"I did not know that," Quimby said.

"You were a party to this plan, weren't you?"

"I suggested it to the buyers. They followed it."

Senator Ashurst told the witness "no man has anything to fear telling this committee the truth," and Chairman Brookhart adjured him "to cut loose."

"My dear man, I told you what the plan was," Quimby said.

"You were a party to this plan?" Senator Jones repeated.

"Yes."

"Did you get any money out of it?" Senator Wheeler resumed.

"You couldn't get that without assuring your buyer he could exhibit."

"I did get money without that assurance in Michigan," said Quimby.

"Mr. Quimby, you are afraid the attorney general will cause you trouble?" Senator Wheeler put in.

"If he can he will cause it now," Quimby replied.

Then the witness told into which states the prize fight pictures went. In Oklahoma and Michigan he had not made the arrangements for arrest and fine.

"I made arrangements in those other states. I suggested whom the buyers should see."

"So you went through this performance in 22 states?"

"Yes."

He was asked to name the states and give the attorney in each one. He said he would "have to look it up."

Muma told him, Quimby said, of the reported exhibition of the pictures at Edward B. McLean's home and President Harding the attorney general and others present.

Send For Ex-Secret Service Man

While Quimby was on the stand, the committee sent for G. O. Holdredge, of the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company to come at once to the hearing. He was said to be former department of justice agent.

"You ought to be letter perfect in what you said in each of these 22 representations," Senator Ashurst suggested. "Repeat what you told each one."

"I told them they were to consult with a law firm whose name was given them and it would be all right."

"As a matter of fact," Senator Jones said, "you had this understanding on each sale that the buyer should have the attorney's name?"

"That was it."

"Did you tell them if they saw the law firm it would be all right to show the pictures?" continued Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire.

Quimby said the assurances were not so definite as that.

Quimby said he had charge of the film exhibition in New York state and that the proceeds were about $75,000. After being fined $1,000 he said, he continued to show the films in New York after about 30 days and was never interfered with.

Under questioning the witness declared he knew the fight pictures had been shown in Washington before President Harding and several cabinet members including "Harry S. New, the postmaster general."

Senator Wheeler read a report by a special investigator saying Muma had been advised to see Urion by Attorney General Daugherty in the picture matter. He denied that Muma had told him that the attorney general had advised him to discuss the matter with Urion.

"Did Muma tell you Urion was a friend of Daugherty's?"

"Yes."

"What was Muma to get out of this?"

"The three of them were to get fifty per cent of the net proceeds."

Senator Wheeler asked if Muma had ever told Quimby that Attorney General Daugherty had told Muma:

"They ought to get a big cut if they put this thing across."

Quimby said he hadn't.

"Wasn't this the plan" Senator Wheeler went on, "that Alfred R. Urion and Muma were to put this across, using great influence with the political parties and press?"

"I don't know," said Quimby.

"Was it after the picture was shown here in Washington that this agreement was entered into?" asked Senator Wheeler, referring to the private showing at McLean's home.

"That I don't remember."

Chairman Brookhart asked what had been made by the films in New York. "About $75,000," said Quimby.

"Did you continue to show the pictures in New York?" asked Senator Jones, "when you were not interferred with?"

Quimby agreed, adding he went ahead about 30 days after he was fined.

"Just waited until things quieted down," Senator Wheeler suggested.

"Yes."

"You got scared when Ralph Navarro, a department justice special agent, got interested in New York?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"Yes."

"Then you got in touch with Jap Muma?"

"Yes."

Senator Wheeler asked for Muma's connection with E. B. McLean.

Berlenbach, Knockout King Rocked to Sleep By Delaney

NEW YORK, March 15.—The sensational knockout Streak of Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight, was abruptly ended lat night when he was knocked out in the fourth round of a spectacular 12-round match by Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn.

Berlenbach's defeat, after he had hung up a string of 23 knockouts came decisively and with dramatic suddenness to a crowd of 14,000 the largest that has packed Madison Square Garden this season.

Delaney's victory came as a result of his superior speed, generalship and hitting accuracy. The clever Bridgeport fighter floored Berlenbach in the third round for a count of four with a swishing right to the jaw. Berlenbach, badly dazed, never really recovered from this blow.

Less than a minute of the fourth round had elapsed when Berlenbach was sent flat on his back with a smashing right. He took a count of eight, gamely arose to his feet and tried to fight back. Backed against the ropes, Berlenbach crumpled under a rain of blows. He managed to stagger to his feet after another count of eight but referee O'Sullivan stepped between the fighters and halted the bout, as Berlenbach was obviously unable to go on and literally was "out on his feet."

Selects and P. H. S. Clash Tonight

When the Baesman's Select crew meet the P. H. S. basketeers in the High School tonight at 8:00 o'clock the local fans will have a chance to see whether star basket shooters get better after they leave High School. The team Baesman will send against the High School quintet will be made up largely of men who have played before in P. H. S., in fact one of the Southeastern Ohio Championships was won by P. H. S. under the guidance of Capt. Baesman.

More interest in this game has already been shown than in most contests this season. Both are favorites of the local fans, in their particular class, and they are sure to put up a real fight.

From all indications the game will be full of thrills when these two go-and-get-'em teams hook up, and a real crowd is expected.

Coach McComb has secured Cook, of Ohio State, as referee. He refereed the game between Portsmouth and Chillicothe last Saturday night.

School Funds Are Exhausted; New Bond Issue to be Voted On at April Primary

A resolution to submit to the electors at the presidential primaries on April 29, the question of a levy not to exceed 3.25 mills for sinking fund charges, outside of the 15 mills limitation of the amended Smith one per cent law, was adopted by the city school at its meeting Friday night, as asolution of the problem confronting it of providing funds for the operation of the city schools until the close of the semester, early in June.

This action was taken after it was disclosed that the school funds are virtually exhausted and that the board is unable to borrow money in anticipation of revenue, by reason of restrictions imposed by the last General Assembly, which has brought about a perplexing situation in view of the fact that the bonds which the same restricting act authorized in order to put the schools on a business basis with a cash surplus to operate on, have been issued but no buyers have been found, it was explained.

During the discussion it developed that the banks have refused to take the issue of $183,000 bonds authorized, which was expected to give the schools an operating fund and it was stated that the failure of the bonds to sell resulted because present sinking fund levies are insufficient to set aside a portion each year to retire the bonds as they fall due. Clerk W. C. Hazelbeck advised that he had been successful in disposing of $70,000 worth of bonds to the sinking fund commission, the proceeds of which were used to meet the teachers' payroll last night, but it was asserted that the remaining $113,000 of the issue must be sold if the schools are to continue to operate. To bring about this much desired result it was determined to submit to the electors for their approval a proposal to authorize the board to make additional levies of 3.25 mills for sinking fund charges, which will, in the event the vote is favorable, produce the necessary revenue.

The proposal will ask that the board be given power to levy this amount for ten years, but approval of the question does not mean that the entire levy will be made. Instead, the intention is that the board will levy each year whatever portion of the total is necessary to meet maturing bonds and set aside a surplus towards retirement of new issues.

The 3.25 levying permission does not mean, even if fully exercised, that this additional amount of taxes will be collected, Board members say. The board is now collecting 1.7 mills annually for sinking fund and interest purposes. The Board, if their proposal is approved, will be authorized to levy an additional 1.55 mills, and the entire amount will be outside the customary limitation, the 1.7 mills within the limitation being disposed of, and not otherwise levied.

The resolution placing authorization of additional levying power before the people for their vote, was prepared by City Solicitor Sherrard M. Johnson. He had been called into consulation by Clerk Hazlebeck when Squires, Saunders and Dempsey, Cleveland bank attorneys, refused to approve the last issue, $183,000 worth of bonds, for purchase by their clients. Present sinking fund revenues, they pointed out, were continually exhausted by retirement of maturing obligations and interest, laying aside no balance to guarantee payment of the new issue when it becomes due.

Because of this attitude taken by the banks, it was pointed out at the meeting, no bonds in all probability can be disposed of, to enable construction of the North Moreland and other needed new school buildings and additions.

Members of the Board hope that carrying of their proposal in the forthcoming election, will immediately clear the way for delivery of the already issued bonds, to provide funds to run the schools until the end of the year.

With the money thus obtained, however, after last night's payrolls had been met, there remained in the tuition fund, from which the teachers' payrolls are met, only $14,965.33. The fund had been overdrawn, Mr. Hazlebeck reported, $17,462.90; $65,000 derived from bond sales was placed in it, and last night's payroll of $32,571.77 reduced it to the balance named.

The contingent fund, from which general expenses and janitors' payrolls are met, is in even more precarious condition. The janitors' payroll amounts to in excess of $3,000 monthly, and gas and light bills must be met from the same source, but the balance in the fund amounts to only $7,660.80.

The building fund is practically all appropriated to definite purposes, although it has a much larger balance of $23,024.71. Much of this has been derived from bonds, also, which precludes possibility of diversion to other uses, but it was estimated that $2,000 of tax money in the fund is available for transfer to the contingent fund, if necessary. This procedure is only possible through petition to the Common Pleas Court, the board was advised.

Discussion of its dilemma then led the board to adoption of its resolution, and a decision to carry on an active campaign for it before the election which will decide its fate. Supt. Frank Appel asked that in conducting this campaign, the entire case with all its facts, the laid before the public by the board.

Pending outcome of the matter, Clark Hazlebeck is faced with necessity of disposing of more of the recent $183,000 bond issue, in order that expenses of running the schools may be met. He explains the school board's difficulty by pointing out that under the former system and until passage of the recently effective act of the General Assembly stopping the practice, the school revenues were only available after the school year (August settlement) and that the law prevents borrowing by the Board in anticipation of this money. To take its place, the legislature authorized issuance of bonds which the Board is unable to deliver by reason of condition of its sinking fund finances.

In view of the condition of school finances, contemplated expenditures were abruptly halted last night, although supplies, equipment and repairs are becoming more pressingly necessary

The Board then passe to consideration of complaints that the Sciotoville high school is being misused. Supt. of Buildings Walter Koegele reported finding evidences of card games in the auditorium, and that he had replaced door glass broken out to effect entrance, by the card players or other prowlers. The matter was referred to the police department with a request for protection. Similar action was taken in regard to recent entering of the McKinley school when about $7 belonging to a teacher was taken.

The meeting was held with vice president Mrs. Albert Marting in the chair, by reason of absence of President Marvin Clark. All other members were present. Permission was granted James Dickey Post, American Legion, to use the high school auditorium March 18 and 19; to the B'nai B'rith lodge for March 25, and to Holy Redeemer school for March 26 and 27 and June 6, when their high school commencement exercises will be held.

Bids of local banks to pay two and one quarter per cent on daily balances, for deposit of school board funds were accepted.

Conrad Roth appeared, as chairman for Scioto county of the Jefferson Memorial Campaign, which is raising funds to perpetuate Monticello, Jefferson's home. He asked the privilege of carrying the campaign into the schools, which was granted.

The schedule, amounting to $42,134.92, was allowed and the board adjourned.

GENERAL TREND OF STOCKS FIRM; INDUSTRIALS WEAK

Bear Pressure Directed Against Tire Shares; Kelly-Springfield Drops

Total stock sales 415,200 shares.
20 industrials averaged 98.13; net loss .52.
High, 1924, 101.24; low 94.68.
20 railroads averaged 84.17; net loss .11.
High 1924, 85.90; low 82.74.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Several weak spots developed in the industrial section of today's stock market but the rails held relatively firm. Bear pressure was again directed against the tire shares, speculative fears for the safety of the preferred dividends on Kelly-Springfield being reflected in a 7½ point break in the six per cent preferred to 65 and a drop of more than two points in the common to 18½, each touching new low records for the year.

The eight per cent preferred broke eight points to 55. American Sumatra Tobacco dropped four points, Chandler Motors three and Coca Cola, General Electric, Mallinson and Willys-Overland preferred sagged two points. Buying of the Wabash issues New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio featured the rail list. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 450,000 shares.

To The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 15.—Mixed price movements took place at the opening of today's stock market. Profit-taking and short selling was resumed in a number of oil, tire and tobacco shares, while operations for the rise took place in some of the rails and specialties.

Profit taking in General Electric later sent it down 1½ points from its early top. Movements in other sections of the list were extremely narrow and irregular New highs were established by New Oreans, Texas and Mexico and Wabash B while American Sumatra Tobacco, Market Street Railway common and preferred and Mallinson Silk sold at new lows, the net exchanges in each case dropping a point. Foreign exchanges opened irregular.

CLOSING PRICE OHIO STOCK

COLUMBUS, March 15.—Cities Service, common, 117½@119; ditto, preferred 72¾@73¼. Pure Oil 24⅝.

Curb Business Shows Progress

NEW YORK, March 15.—Business on the curb exchange, progressed during the week in an unusually quiet manner. Price changes were small, movements generally being limited within a narrow range. There were, however, several prominent features, chief among them being Dubilier Condenser, which ranged from 26¼ to 33, making a new high on each day of the week. Ford Motor of Canada also was strong advancing six points to 477, and Glen Alden Coal had intervals of activity making a gain in the first half of the week of more than 3 points to 85¾. Lehigh Coal sales, after moving up over three points, yielded more than 6 points. Lehigh Power securities were active and strong and made a gain of over 4 points. Ward Baking issues were in demand and were established in a moderately higher range.

There was no general response to the further reports of strong position in the petroleum industry, but there were advances in individual stocks at times because of a sudden concentration of buying orders. Prairie Oil and Gas rose from 239½ to 253½ but reacted more than 10 points from its high level. Borne and Scrymser moved up 20 points but so far no developments have occurred to explain the continued upward movement, and Gas rose from 239½ to 253½ but over a wide range, advancing 20 points to 247 with a sharp reaction after that movement.

Bonds were fairly active, a feature being heavy trading in public service corporation of New Jersey 7's which ranged from 105 to 107⅝. Argentine 6's after a moderate advance, receded Standard Oil of Nebraska also moved

WHEAT PRICES FIRM; CORN WEAKENED

CHICAGO, March 15.—Wheat prices showed firmness today in the early transactions, buyers being somewhat encouraged as a result of recent European demand for Canadian wheat and because of higher quotations at Liverpool. Unfavorable crop reports from east of the Mississippi were also a bullish factor. Houses with eastern connections led the buying. Opening prices which ranged from ⅛ to ½@⅝c up, May 106 to 106¼, and July 106¾ to 107, were followed by a slight reaction.

An accumulation of overnight selling orders weakened the corn market. After opening at ⅝c lower to ⅛c advance, May 77½ to 78, corn underwent a moderate general setback.

The finish was unsettled ⅝ to ¾@⅞c net higher, May 1.06¼ to 1.06⅜, and July 1.07⅛ to 1.07¼.

Oats were easier, owing to corn weakness. Starting at ⅛c off, to ⅛c up, May 46 to 46@46⅛, oats later showed a little loss all around. Higher quotations on hogs strengthened the provision market.

Prices closed nervous, ⅜ to ⅝c net lower; May 77½ to 77⅝.

Bond Prices Move In Narrow Limits

Total bond sales (par value) $5,398,000.
10 first grade rails adveraged 85.82; net gain .09.
10 secondary rails averaged 83.76; not gain .11.
10 public utilities averaged 87.18; net gain .16.
10 industrials averaged 93.41; net loss .06.
Combined average 87.54; net gain .06.
Combined average month ago, 87.54; year ago 86.77.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Bond prices moved within narrow limits in quiet trading today.

Following reports that a large insurance company had acquired more than $2,000,000 worth of the St. Paul 5's of 1925 in the hope of profiting on maturity, renewed buying of the bonds developed, sending the price up almost to a point from the recent level around 80 at which they had been stabilized.

Wilson and Company, which had been over-sold in anticipation of an issue of prior preferred stock made further recovery in the face of omissions of the preferred dividend. Favorable trade reports influenced buying of sugar company obligations although Punta Alegre 7's, after touching a new high, were subjected to profit-taking.

Education Everywhere

A tourist who had lost his way near a Blackfoot reservation saw an Indian approaching. The tourist hailed him with a series of grunts and the salutation "How?"

"I am quite well, thank you," responded the red man.

"Injun sabe paleface lingo?"

"Not that kind," declared the Carlisle graduate. "It is too complicated for me to follow."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Physically Handicapped

Susanne had been punished for some minor misdemeanor and went about her play sullenly.

Finally she burst out with all the pent-up feeling her small frame could muster, and with clenched fists and gritting teeth delivered the following ultimatum to her amused parents:

"I wish I had four feet and a tail—and long claws—and teeth sharp as nails—I'd eat you both up."—Indianapolis News.

Ins and Outs

Hey! You fellows on the outside needn't do all the kicking about the West Union roads. It's just as hard for us to get out and in again as it is for you to get in and out again—West Union, O., Defender.

Just An Illusion

A brass band visited a small village and the people were delighted with it, but they couldn't make head or tail of the trombone, so they sent for old Peleg Hoskins, who claimed he understood music.

Well, Old Peleg watched the performance of the trombone player for some time. Then he said, with a sneer;

"Take no notice of him, fellows. There's a trick in it; he don't swallow it every time."—Los Angeles Times.

"Covered Wagon" at Columbia Monday

Eugene O'Brien, the popular stage and screen star is one of the greatest admirers of "The Covered Wagon," which comes to Columbia, March 17, 18 and 19. His intense interest in the presentation is due, he says, to the fact that "The Covered Wagon" is the finest picture he ever saw—and also because he spent his boyhood in a region in which the covered wagon had been, not so very many year before his time, the only means of communication with the outside world.

On several occasions Mr. O'Brien has been accompanied on his visits to the theatre, by his mother, Mrs. Kathryn O'Brien, who occasonaly travels with him. Mrs. O'Brien lives in Boulder, Colorado, which was Eugene O'Brien's birthplace, and her particular interest in "The Covered Wagon" is due to the fact that she went to Boulder, from Galva, Illinois, in a covered wagon, drawn by oxen, in 1873.

"Of course," said Mrs. O'Brien, "my journey westward occurred twenty-five years later than the great pilgrimage depicted in "The Covered Wagon," but many of the conditions were the same, and we faced many of the same dangers. We were three months on the journey from Illinois to Colorado, which was then invariably spoken of as 'Pike's Peak.' When we finally reached Boulder City, as it was then called, we found that the 'city' consisted of a blacksmith shop and a boarding house. Flour sold for fifty dollars a bag; butter was a dollar a pound, and eggs also were a dollar a pound. A dozen eggs of ordinary size weighed a pound and a quarter.

"We had many an Indian scare at Boulder City in those days, and were ever watchful of the bands of Utes, who came to the little settlement to trade. Sitting Bull was their chief, and a treacherous, murderous lot they were. They were, of course, wonderful horsemen, riding bareback with only a girth of braided horsehair through which to thrust the knees when riding on an unruly pony. I was especially struck by the accuracy of the manner of riding in the wonderful buffalo hunt, in "The Covered Wagon," and by the characteristic touch when Ernest Torrence strips to the waist to take part in it. Indeed it seems to me that every detail of the picture is absolutely accurate—and the whole effect of it is thrilling and inspiring in the extreme."

GOVERNMENT ISSUES APPEAL FOR CO-OPERATION IN LAW ENFORCEMENT

The following suggestions on law enforcement, prepared by the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue, are submitted by the Scioto County War Enforcement League for the consideration of citizens who take a personal interest in improving local conditions. While a number of the suggestions are unnecessary here because there is no local condition to which they can apply, they are appended as prepared. They were received by Dr. J. B. Hawk, retiring president of the Law Enforcement League.

How Can You Help Law Enforcement—Individually

1—Give your cooperation and assistance to all enforcement officers.

2—Publicly and privately register your sentiment in favor of vigorous enforcement of the law.

3—Serve on juries, when called.

4—Express your opinion to the editor of your paper.

5—Encourage public officials.

6—Acquaint yourself with the facts in order to refute the misrepresentations of propagandists.

7—Affiliate with those societies and organizations that have for their purpose the inculcating of the spirit of respect for law in both young and old.

8—Keep your daily conduct in strict obedience to the law, thus creating an example to others on the proper attitude toward the law.

How You Can Help Law Enforcement—Collectively

1—As an organization study the national, state and city enforcement laws, and the names and duties of the officials who are charged with its observance.

2—Strive to organize study classes in women's clubs, church missionary societies, men's clubs and young peoples organizations.

Cooperation With Enforcement Officials

1—Confer with the prosecuting attorney, executive officer, or county judge as to the best methods of cooperation.

2—Report evidence of law violations to the local officials whose duty it is to enforce the law.

3—When additional legal counsel is needed or the cooperation of state or federal officers, write to state enforcement headquarters, if no local attorney will advise you.

4—Keep a complete roster of all law enforcement officials in your city and county. Send them helpful information, encouraging news items on law enforcement, and appreciative letters, showing your interest in their efforts. Keep in weekly touch with the local law enforcement office to see what is needed.

5—Secure lists of convictions and tabulate arrests for drunkenness and crimes from court dockets and police departments each month or quarter, and report to state enforcement headquarters.

6—Follow up cases where sentence is suspended during good behavior, and report violation sof court order.

7—Notify prosecuting officers when parties are arrested for second offense as, if the fact is proven, a more severe penalty is provided for such cases.

8—Send evidence of law violations by permit holders to state enforcement headquarters.

9—Information concerning law violations should be given to owners of buildings.

Attendance at Court

1—Be present at the first session of the federal or local court of your district, that you may learn the attitude of the judge on the question of enforcing the law.

2—Arrange for representatives of your organization to attend court trials of important cases.

Appreciation

1—Praise the appearance of lessons on reverence for law.

2—Show your appreciation and cooperation to officers who are doing their duty.

3—Commend newspapers and editors for helpful, constructive publicity.

Protest

1—Protest in a dignified manner to any mayor, prosecutor, judge or other officer who fails in doing his duty and makes law enforcement a farce.

2—When public officers fail in doing their duty, a committee can often voice a dignified protest which will bring good results. One should give him every chance to do his full duty, however, before a protest is filed.

3—When public officials ignore their oath of office and fail to enforce the law even when they have the evidence, publish this news in the newspapers and make it widely known to the taxpaying citizens.

4—Protest to theatre managers the showing of pictures or scenes which treat the Eighteenth Amendment lightly.

5—Take the initiative, if it becomes necessary, in calling a mass meeting of citizens to outline a campaign that will result in law observance and law enforcement.

Educate Public Sentiment

1—Ask ministers to preach on law observance.

2—Lose no opportunity for short talks at clubs, Bible classes, Americanization schools, etc.

3—Train the children in the home, the school, and the Sunday school, to recognize obedience to authority.

4—Create public sentiment for law by talking it.

5—Whenever the Eighteenth Amendment is condemned in your presence, speak your convictions courageously, but never in anger.

6—Make yourself familiar with the duties of officials of your locality, local and otherwise, as concerns law enforcement.

7—Familiarize yourself with all officers authorized to make arrests.

Homecoming Is Big Success

With four hundred members of the congregation present, the First Presbyterian church formally opened their new social hall last night. A fine program and refreshments were features of the meeting.

The Bible School orchestra of seventeen pieces opened the program in the social hall with several splendid selections, and Dr. W. D. Tremper made a short address.

Clem De Bruin sang several selections, and Mrs. Lena Kline Reed gave several interesting readings.

Duets by Mrs. Mae Lynn and Chester Riggles, addresses by the pastor, Rev W. H. Gleiser and M. A. Coe and selections by the church quartette, composed of Mrs. Mae Lynn, Mrs. Charles Storch, W. H. Schwartz, and Chester Riggles, concluded the program.

At the close of this program, refreshments were served and the big crowd adjourned to the Sunday School room, where they were entertained by the boys department of the Bible School, assisted by Dr. Frank A. Coburn, Earl Hayes, and Fred Klingman.

$100,000 Damage Suit Filed Against F. W. Rickey Is a Sequel to Killing

MONROE, MICH., March 15 Suit in behalf Sam Kalb, in estate of his son, Philip, asking $100 000 damages, was filed here Friday afternoon with county clerk, against Frank W. Rickey, Harry Dyckman, Federal prohibition agents, Frank W. Rickey, individually, Roy H. Haynes, Federal prohibition commissioner; David Blair, commissioner of internal revenue. The suit is the outgrowth of the slaying of Philip Kalb who was killed in Samaria last January. Kalb was found dead presumably from bullet wounds, during a liquor raid on his home.

Examination of Rickey on a charge of murder set for Friday before Justice Charles Hoyt, adjourned until March 21, upon request of William P. Haas, attorney for defendant. Mr. Haas did not assign any reason.

Mr. Rickey did not appear in court. Philip Kalb, 22, was killed January 13, by revolver shot during a moonshine raid at home of his father, Sam Kalb, at Samaria, staged by five Federal prohibition agents and four state troopers.

Mr. Rickey was in Detroit yesterday as a witness in a Federal liquor case heard there in which he was the arresting officer.

O. S. U. Professor Favors Artificial Sterility to Eliminate Human Misfits

COLUMBUS, O., March 15.—(By the A. P.)—Artificial sterility was suggested here today by Prof. Raymond C. Osburn, head of zoology and entomology department at Ohio State University, as the best solution to eliminate the mentally incompetent, socially degenerate and unfit classes of mankind, among the human race, in making the principal address at the university's first winter convocation during which degrees were conferred upon 132 students.

"As a result of the continued increase in the world's population, mankind in the near future will have to face the necessity of solving the food problem and eliminating the unfit among the human race," he said. "There is no use in being squeamish or over sentimental about these matters for they are problems that must be faced.

"The remedy is in artificial sterility and must be imposed upon the genetically and unfortunate members of the human race so that they shall not overwhelm those who are mentally and physicially fit."

Senator Reed Has Debate With Copy Boy; Boy Wins

WASHINGTON, March 15. — (By the A. P.)—Senatorial dignity, represented in the person of Senator Reed, of Missouri, and senatorial curiosity, also represented by Senator Reed, successfully blocked one outlet for news bulletins from the Daugherty investigation committee room today, but not without a struggle. It required both physical and verbal efforts on the senator's part to make good his vantage point.

While there were no physical reprisals on the part of the capitol police guard, the copy boy hustling with news bulletins to the wires, or of other bystanders who felt the weight of the senatorial hand, the ten-year-old copy boy did not fail to exchange remarks, even with as fearsome a senatorial debater as Senator Reed.

Boy Asserts Rights

"Who are you hitting?" demanded the indignant youngster when a sweep of the senator's hand reached him as he sought to plunge through the doorway where the senator had taken his stand. A moment before the watchman had tried to clear the doorway for the copy boys only to be whirled to one side by the senator.

"I'm tired of having you damn kids tramp on my toes," snarled the augnast senator at the boy."

"I'm no more of a damn kid than you are a damn man," he got back from the boy just as hotly.

Then the lad skipped on with his message. Later when he learned that he had tilted with a senator, the boy was alarmed, refusing to use the doorway again. A new route for the flying messengers had to be arranged to the disturbance of the audience crowding the committee room before the business of reporting the proceedings to waiting newspapers could go ahead at full speed.

LIQUOR AND DRUGS SOLD FREELY OFF BRITISH SHIPS

NEW YORK, March 15.—(By the A. P.)—Trial of the government's suit for confiscation of the Royal Mail liner Orduna, seized Wednesday as a smuggler, began today with witnesses testifying that narcotics and liquor were sold freely each time the vessel reached this port and that her owners shared the profits.

Champagne, whiskey, rum, beer, gin, benedictine and drugs were dispensed to bootleggers by officers and crew of the Orduna, according to the testimony. The witnesses, including federal agents, and members of the crew, declared the Orduna's bar never was closed in port.

At the outset of the proceedings, E. J. Berwind, American and British coal operator and financier, posted a $1,000,000 bond so the Orduna might continue in trans-Atlantic passenger service. She is scheduled to sail for Hamburg tomorrow with 144 passengers.

Is Chief Witness

Charles Dawe, the ship's store keeper, and one of the seven members of the crew to plead guilty of illegally importing liquor, was the government's principal witness. He testified that in his three years on the Orduna, liquor had been sold aboard her every time she reached the port of New York.

He declared the liquor was brought in under seal, the seals were broken when the vessels docked, the liquor was disposed of to bootleggers and the storeroom re-sealed by his shipmates. He did not know where the seals came from he said.

Identified As Bootlegger

Dawe identified Joseph Smith, one of the revenue agents who raided the ship on Wednesday and one of the government's chief witnesses today as a bootlegger who often had bought liquor on the Orduna.

Smith, preceding Dawe on the stand, told of joining the government service, of boarding the Orduna with a fellow agent two voyages ago and of buying rye whiskey at $23 a case and gin at $3 a bottle. They also drank good beer over the ship's bar.

Smith's next visit to the Orduna was when she reached port in February. Ralph Oyler, a federal narcotic agent, accompanied him. Smith testified he bought 50 cases of whiskey at $35 a case from Store Keeper Dawe and his lineman, and that Oyler bought several ounces of a narcotic drug.

Smith also testified that he and Oyler last Tuesday arranged with Dawe to buy all the champagne, gin, rye and benedictine in the ship's store room, and a considerable supply of narcotics. It was on the pretense of taking off these purchases the next day that a squad of federal men raided the ship, made seven prisoners and impounded the vessel.

Curiosity once prompted him, said the witness, to ask Dawe what he did about "people who run the boat." Dawe's answer was, according to Smith, "We turn the money in to the company. They don't care what we do with the liquor as long as we get the money."

Counsel for the defense indicated that the Royal Mail line owner's defense would be that the liquor and narcotics were smuggled in and sold without the knowledge of themselves, the ship's master, Captain Walter P. Warner, or other responsible officers on board.

Move To Secure Thaws Release

PHILADELPHIA, PA., March 15.—(By the A. P.)—Legal proceedings to liberate Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, from the Pennsylvania Hospital for mental and nervous diseases in this city, were started today when Judge J. Willis Martin, in common pleas court, granted a petition for a jury trial to determine Thaw's present mental condition.

Although the court directed that ten days notice of the proceedings be given to Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, who is "committee of his person" and to Walter Riddle and Howard Irish, committee of his estate, no delay is expected to result, for former Judge John M. Paterson, counsel for Thaw, said that Thaw's mother had given her consent to the filing of the petition. For this reason, also Patterson said there was little likelihood that any objection would be raised against Thaw's release. If such objection is not offered, Patterson declared the jury would hear only such evidence as Thaw's counsel put forth to prove his sanity and a verdict in his favor would be a foregone conclusion.

The petition, recites briefly, the history of the proceedings, by which Thaw was adjudged a lunatic and committed to the asylum and adds:

"Your petitioner has been restored to a sound state of mind and is fully capable of managing himself and his affairs.

"Your petitioner demands a jury trial to determine whether or not he has been restored to such sound state of mind as above set forth."

Pennsylvania Increases Wages

PHILADELPHIA, March 15. — (By the A. P.)—An increase in wages amounting in the aggregate to 6.2 per cent. over the present wage scale for approximately 32,000 employes in the train service of the Pennsylvania railroad system was announced today by the company. Agreement on the advance was reached at conferences between the management and employe representatives of conductors, brakemen, baggagemen and switch tenders.

The new agreement also provides, for the first time, for a guarantee of minimum earnings for each day of service, which, a statement by the company said, would be substantially more than under the former schedule.

Passenger service: Conductors, baggagemen and brakemen thirty cents a day.

Freight service: Conductors and brakemen, thirty-six cents a day.

Yard service: Conductors forty cents a day; brakemen, thirty-two cents a day.

Switch tenders, thirty-two cents a day.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches get busy with good Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, jars and tubes.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 15—There are several hundred old time coachmen remaining in New York. Of all servants they appear most faithful. Many of them are attached to families who have become impoverished, but they have saved their money and they work in old age without pay.

From Washington Square in the late afternoon they drive up the avenue atop their rattling, ram-shackle carriages. Inside are usually aged gray-haired ladies dressed plainly in black. They seem oddly detached from the motor rush about them.

In the old days the coachman was a jovial, smart looking fellow. His cheeks were rosy and there was dignity in his silk hat and blue or fawn box overcoat with pearl buttons. He sat rigidly beside the footman with scarcely a move save an occasional flick of the whip.

Old New York selected its coachmen with as much care as the modern business man selects an important executive. He was closer to the family than any other employee. Wives, mothers and children were entrusted to his keeping.

Most of the old timers came from Ireland. They were thrifty and having no expense for board, lodging or clothes, they were able to save nearly all their salaries. When the automobile came they refused to adjust themselves to a mechanical age.

Now the coachman is seedy looking. There is apathetic primp to his shabby attire. Still the dignity of him is unsullied. The few coachmen of rich New Yorkers who use a horse drawn carriage for ultra smart social events are of a different type. They are merely chauffeurs turned coachmen for the occasion. There is no pride in their work. Tey appear rather self-conscious and anxious to get back of the motor wheel.

Now and then a man on the "sucker list" of Wall Street wins. There are scores of concerns down town that conduct "advice agencies." They give different tips to each customer. The son of a high army officer who recently cleaned up a fortune was a customer of an advice agency. It just so happened every tip given to him was sure fire. But while he was winning there were thousands who were losing heavily.

Twice this season a certain famous female star has been taken to a sanitarium for alcoholics. As the story goes, she had never touched liquor until she was urged to take a "bracer" before a first night performance, which folowed six days' strenuous rehearsals. Her father was a chronic inebriate. The young woman began drinking steadily after her first drink. The descent was rapid.

There is another star whose name in light once studded the Broadway skies and who is now a hat check girl in the Casino restaurant in Central Park. Money and fame tumble about them with a rush, but few theatrical stars reach old age in plenty. Still another star of the White Way constellation now peddles packets of gum under theater canopies. Broadway lights still call her. It is the light that never dims.

In the pinchbeck haunts of Greenwich Village gaiety are found the most bored looking young women in town. Now and then when the piano plays a dance tune they appear to be galvanized into a similitude of gaiety, but it is only for the moment. The larger part of the time they seem to be surfeited with a depressing world weariness. Most of the idlers are looking for work and hoping they will not find it. Laziness is hidden under the plea of art.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

When the Beans Were Spilled

An old lady was on a visit to her married daughter. One day there was company, and little Theodore, the hope of the house, was doing his best to amuse his mother's visitors. Presently he left the hoom to return soon afterwards with a zinc bucket. This he planted right in front of his grandma, while the others sat wondering what was about to happen.

"Grandma," said little Theodore, "will oo kick it?"

"Bless the child," said the surprised old lady, "why do you wish me to do that, darling?"

"Because," replied the young hopeful, "I heard pa say we should be awfully rich when oo kicked the bucket!"—Brisbane Daily News.

Just Waiting

Me and my wife.
Waiting for pay day,
Such is our life.

Function

"Where are you going now, Bluebelle?"

"To a political tea."

Hardly

"Man wants but little here below."

"Then he can't say he isn't accommodated."

Usual Question

"I hear the first robin is still in town," said the managing editor.

"Yes, sir."

"Get an interview with him. Ask him what he thinks of our city."

Put to Shame

Representative Britten was condemning the menus of the Leviathan, which are couched in French.

"Imagine chicken hash in French!" he said. "We don't all know French, and many an honest American gentleman falls into extraordinary errors over these menus—like the Hartford millionaire who pointed to a French phrase and said to the waiter:

"'I'll take that.'

"'I'm sorry, sor,' said the waiter, 'but the band is playing that.'"

She Said It

"I think I heard an alarm of fire," he said, as they were seated in the theater, "and I must go out and see about it."

Returning about 15 minutes later he remarked: "It wasn't a fire."

"And it wasn't water!" she said, still more briefly.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

GAS MAIN BURSTS; TWO MEN KILLED

When a section of a 20 inch main of the United Fuel Gas company, exploded near Charleston, W. Va., Friday afternoon at 4:30, two men were killed when struck by fragments of the pipe.

Another section of pipe was put in at the point where the explosion occurred and gas pressure was kept at a normal stage by use of an auxiliary line. The United Fuel Gas company was able to convey the normal pressure to the Portsmouth Gas company, and as a result the accident did not affect the local pressure. "Had it been an extremely cold day we probably would have suffered from a lack of gas pressure," B. J. Grahan, head of the Portsmouth Gas company said Saturday.

"Work of installing a new section by the United Fuel Gas company at a point where the line crosses the Kanawha river near Charleston, was completed at 2 a. m. Saturday."

FOUR FACE LIQUOR CHARGES

Four alleged dry law offenders giving the names of Luther James, 26, Henry Winters, 51, Martin Waller, 46, and Arthur McDermott, 41, were caught in the police net Saturday and locked up at the city jail to answer to charges in Municipal court Monday.

James and Winters were taken into custody shortly before noon, by Chief Rome Arthur and Detective Andy Leslie at the N. and W. shops, where they are employed and according to officers the pair had four half pints in their possession at the time.

Waller, who is employed by the Lett Lumber company, was picked up by Chief Arthur in the North End about one o'clock, shortly after he had invested in a half pint of "moon" and before he had an opportunity to consume but a part of the liquor. A little later McDermott who is a brickworker, was taken into custody at his home, 507 Eleventh street, and he is charged with selling liquor unlawfully. Waller is charged with possession.

Advance Sale for "Covered Wagon" Opens

The advance seat sale for "The Covered Wagon" which is to be shown at the Columbia next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has broken all records for advance seat sales in Portsmouth, according to manager Fred Tynes. The line began forming at 8 o'clock and when the box office window was opened the long queue wound its way through the lobby and well down Gallia street.

Seats for the Wednesday performances, both matinee and night, will go on sale Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

"The Covered Wagon" completed a full year's run in New York the 12th of this month and seats are already sold there for four and five weeks in advance.

Portsmouth will have six performances of this picture that has taken the country by storm, and there are good seats to be had for every showing.

"I knew he (Muma) was in McLean's employ," Quimby said.

"Do you know that the attorney's fees and expenses for the showing in Chicago alone were $35,000?" Senator Wheeler asked.

"I understand the expenses there were very heavy."

Pressed by Senator Wheeler, Quimby said there was "some connection" between Orr and Jess Smith. He admitted that Orr had told him Smith was "connected with them."

Senator Jones asked how Quimby and Jesse Smith had an interest in the contract.

"Orr told me," Quimby said, "I don't know Smith and never saw him."

"Did he tell you that Smith was a friend of the attorney general's?" Chairman Brookhart asked.

"I was told so."

"Who did you sell out to in Chicago?"

"Mr. Dill," Quimby replied. "He was to pay $25,000 for the picture, but there was considerable trouble and we did not get anything out of the picture there."

"You were to get nothing where they couldn't show?" asked Senator Jones.

"Yes."

The films were sold for Chicago to a Mr. Bedell, the witness said for $25,000 but the expenses were so heavy he lost money.

Senator Wheeler read a list of persons who had been fined in various states for showing the films.

The list identified in part by Quimby showed that William H. Rudolph operated in four states. Quimby said he was a "pirate" and "operated on his own hook" in the south.

Those convicted, the witness said, were the men to whom the state rights in the pictures had been sold.

"Wasn't Bill Orr supposed to represent Jesse Smith in this contract?"

"I knew they were close friends."

"Didn't you tell me that Jesse Smith had an interest in this contract last night?"

"Yes."

"Did anybody from the department of justice try to intimidate you?"

"I'll say they never had a chance," put in Senator Wheeler.

"From what you got, half went to you and half to Muma?" Quimby was asked.

"Yes."

The receipts of Orr.-Muma and Martin, Quimby said, were "around $60,000 or $65,000."

The total net profits including foreign sales, Quimby said, were afound $125,000, not including New Jersey rights.

Senator Wheeler, reading from reports, named men who paid fines in various cities as announced last night by Attorney General Daugherty.

"In Boston, the man indicted was Theodare Hayes, and he wasn't prosecuted or fined," Senator Wheeler commented.

"Was Muma ever tried?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"Not that I know of."

"You did know that Mr. Muma came to Washington and confessed all his sins to Mr. Burns and said he was headed straight for the Atlanta penitentiary?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"No, I didn't know that."

"Not to my knowledge."

An injunction would have stopped proceedings, Quimby agreed.

The period of his "operations" the witness said, was from July 4 to about December 1, 1921.

Quimby was told by Muma, he said, that he was a very good friend of Attorney General Daugherty and William J. Burns.

The picture trade knew that he was the owner of the pictures and so did the department of justice.

To Muma, by check, Quimby said, he paid $65,000.

"The total receipts in this country outside of New Jersey were about $125,000?" Senator Moses asked.

"About that."

"And that was after the legal expenses in each state were paid?"

"Yes."

"You had frequent conferences with Muma?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"I would say eight or ten times."

"Didn't Muma frequently say that he was a close acquaintance of the attorney general and Mr. Burns?"

"He said they were good friends."

"What led Muma to tell you he was a close friend of the attorney general?" Senator Jones asked.

"I don't know."

"No cross examination of the witness," said Paul Howland, counsel for Attorney General Daugherty.

Burns, Wheeler suggested, had exclaimed to Muma after hearing the picture story——

"By God, everybody around here knows everything but me!"

Quimby said Muma had not repeated that conversation.

"You've said you learned that Jesse Smith was in this picture with Orr," Senator Ashurst resumed. "And after you learned that, all fear of prosecution left you. You felt safe."

Quimby said he and Rickard had planned originally only to show the films in New Jersey and abroad, but after Muma opened negotiations, he was willing to proceed in other states.

Senator Wheeler insisted that a fifty per cent split to Orr, Muma and Martin was for their "pull" in Washington. Quimby answered only that they assured him that they would not be disturbed.

"I don't remember. I had fear of prosecution until Navarro came in," Quimby observed.

"You thought it was all fixed?" Senator Wheeler suggested "fixed with Washington through money or influence or something; that's what these people told you?"

Quimby hesitated in answering.

"They told me that if they'd carry out their plans it would be all right," Quimby finally said.

"You never intended to show them anywhere outside of New Jersey" Wheeler demanded, "until Rickard came to you?"

"Yes."

"And he told you Muma was a close friend of Harry M. Daugherty and E. B. McLean and that it could be fixed to show them all over the country?"

"Yes."

"And Bill and these people—they were to get 50 per cent of the net profits for their influence in Washington?" said the senator.

Quimby was silent.

"Why do you hesitate? What did they get 50 per cent for?"

"There must be equity in a contract," Quimby said.

"Yes, equity was their pull in Washington?"

"Their equity was to advise me how to sell the pictures," Quimby replied.

Senator Wheeler went over it again, asserting Orr was a politician, Muma a newspaper man, and Urion, a lawyer.

"They didn't say they would fix things directly," Wheeler suggested.

"They told me if I would carry out their plans it would be all right," was Quimby's reply.

"Getting facts out of you is like playing billiards with a spiral cue," remarked Ashurst.

"Whatever your arrangements with Muma for protection may have been, you later learned that the department of justice was investigating and arranging to prosecute?" asked Howland.

"Navarro told me I could be prosecuted for conspiracy and I said I was through."

Quimby was excused after two hours on the stand and F. C. Pendleton, a former department of justice agent, was called.

Pendleton said it was "generally understood" throughout the country that W. J. Burns used his official position to aid the business of the Burns Detective organization.

Before being excused after a short examination, he smilingly admitted that he was a competitor of Burns and all other similar agencies.

P. C. Baldwin, San Antonio, Texas, ranger, was the next witness.

Violations of Neutrality Laws

With Baldwin's examination the testimony was switched to the subject of violations of neutrality on the Mexican border.

There were many cases of arms shipments, Baldwin said, during the revolution of Esteban Cantu, governor of Lower California.

A William Hanson, in the immigration service at San Antonio, was understood to be involved with Mexicans in getting arms into the hands of the revolutionists, Baldwin testified. Hanson was understood to have helped the revolutionists, the witness said, after he (Hanson) had been attached to the congressional committee headed by former Secretary Fall, which inquired into Mexican conditions.

Baldwin said he referred to the department of justice a report that "Hanson had been to Washington to make arrangements with certain high officials whereby Washington would sanction a revolution if the right people were behind it.

While engaged in stopping neutrality violations Baldwin said, he was transferred in May, 1921, from Del Rio to Dallas and no one was assigned to his place by the department of justice. That left about 200 miles of the border open as far as the department of justice was concerned, he said.

Baldwin said also he had instructions from the department of justice not to investigate violations of the liquor laws but to leave that field to the prohibition officers.

"Do you know Gus T. Jones?" Senator Wheeler asked.

"He was superintendent of investigation for the department of justice at El Paso," Baldwin said, explaining that Jones had been assigned to work with the Fall committee. Before going on his transfer he made a report on a conspiracy of nine men "to slip in liquor from Mexico."

Say U. S. Deputy Marshal Intoxicated

Although department of justice agents were supposed to report other federal law violations to responsible authorities Baldwin said there was "a good deal of drinking" about the federal building at Dallas and that the United States deputy marshal got intoxicated.

Senator Wheeler understood the witness to say that the postmaster who the witness identified as a Democrat, was intoxicated also, but the witness said not.

"Let's get this straight," said Senator Wheeler.

"What happened to the Democrat?"

"He was chased out of the building by the United States deputy marshal," Baldwin said, adding that he was not intoxicated.

Baldwin also charged District Attorney Zweifel, of Texas, of failing to prosecute Jack Wiley, a friend of his, said to have secured $1,000 while posing as a federal operator.

Baldwin identified a circular order received from Director Burns prohibiting investigation of the federal district attorneys or other federal officials. This came, Baldwin said, after he had been active in his investigations.

Baldwin also charged that District Attorney Zweifel had asked him to recommend M. L. Lide for appointment as a department of justice agent after, Baldwin declared, Lide had been indicted for, and admitted having posed as a federal officer and taken $250 from a bootlegger named Hightower.

Baldwin also charged that United States Attorney John D. Hartman of the Western Texas District had delayed filing a charge against Harry Hamilton, a prohibition officer, charged with selling seized stills to other bootleggers.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sarah C. Chapman

Mrs. Sarah C. Chapman, who was well known in Portsmouth, passed away Wednesday at her home in Columbus. She was born and reared in Portsmouth, but for several years had resided in the Capital City. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Frank Black, a grand-daughter, Helen Black, and two sisters, Mrs. A. Sibley of Yakima, Wash., and Mrs. H. Keatley of Columbus, who also formerly resided in Portsmouth.

Twenty-Four Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kerchival rejoiced over the arrival of a baby son at their home on East Sixth street.

Harry Royse took a position as clerk at Amann's Market street drug store.

Frank Berry, 27, of Lawrence county, was granted a license to wed Ida Martin, 26, of this city.

J. Kenneth Nolder, 31, salesman, and Erma D. Noel, 22, obtained a license to wed.

Samuel A. Clark, 20, and Alice E. Graham, both of Harrison township, were married at the court house by Rev. John B. Tracy.

Washington despatches told of the appointment of W. A. Hamilton as a ganger in the Lexington, Ky., district of the Internal Revenue Service.

Bussa Better

Chester Bussa, who suffered a fractured knee cap a few days ago while assisting in moving a piano for the Independent Taxi Company, is getting along nicely at his home, 1821 Jackson street, but he will be detained from his work for several weeks.

Mr. Hard Mad? Nope Says It's "Oil" Right

Charles E. Hard of Franklin avenue awakened one morning to find himself famous in away that he had not sought, according to writings from Washington while hare appearing in the press of the country.

Mr. Hard's picture is appearing all over the United States, labeled "Smithers."

It seems that one Smithers is the telegrapher at the White House, who operated at night the leased wire between the Washington Post and E. B. McLean, in Florida. This did not mean that Smithers was connected with the oil scandal. He was merely picking up a little extra money by working at night after his regular hourse were over.

However, the recent probe brought him into the lime-light and an enterprising newspaper sought his photograph. Not finding one, somebody substituted the likeness of Mr. Hard. An agency took up the picture and sent it all over the country.

Mr. Hard is now being deluged with letters from his many Washington friends, "kidding" him about being dragged into the oil scandal. Mr. Hard was a personal friend of President Harding's and made a host of friends while he was attached to the White House during the Harding administration.

Tracy Says Unappropriated Balance of State $8,375,618.95

COLUMBUS, O., March 15.—(By the Associated Press)—An estimated cash balance of $14,645,618.95 will be in the state treasury June 30, 1925, according to a financial statement for the biennium July 1, 1923, to June 30, 1925, submitted to Governor Donahey today by State Auditor Tracy. This amount minus appropriations will leave an estimated unappropriated balance of $8,375,618.95, according to the statement.

Auditor Tracy's statement was furnished Governor Donahey at the governor's request and was the result of a letter from Attorney General Crabbe to Governor Donahey suggesting that a special session of the legislature be asked to provide funds for needy school districts.

The statement submitted today shows the "high tide" in the general revenue fund was reached January 5, 1924, when there was a balance of $23,044,610 in the state treasury.

Auditor Tracy said in his report that "until the legislature by appropriation provides for an increased departmental personnel in the various departments of the state government any increase of the volume of business done through state departments will lead inevitably to a great waste of public funds.

"In my opinion several of the larger departments of the state government are now functioning beyond their ability to carefully safeguard the interests of the state in a financial way."

Chimney Fire

A spark from the chimney caused a fire this morning about 7:00 o'clock in the home of W. C. Trisler, 2231 Robinson avenue. The Hilltop and Gallia street companies made the run. The fire was put out with chemicals. The house was owned by P. W. Kilcoyne.

Damage Slight

Fire this morning about 10:00 at the home of Sam Messer, 1117 Front street, was started by a coal grate overheating the boards back of it. Smoke poured from the house and was first noticed by Harry Martin, of Front street, who turned in the alarm and carried furniture out of the house. Seventh and Gallia street companies responded to an alarm and extinguished the flames. Damage was slight.

Hazelbeck will insure you.

Stunt Night Success

"Stunt night," with everything on the program fro ma speech by "Governor Donahey," via "radio," to the making of the first deposit in the new bank, featured last night's second anniversary meeting of the Lucasville Betterment Association.

Community Hall was packed to the doors when Rev. George Weaver, president of the Association, called the meeting to order. The Lucasville band provided music for the occasion, augmented by several selections on French harps and special dancing numbers.

The large crowd listened intently to an address by "Governor Donahey" delivered over "radio" until Chairman Weaver introduced E. C. "Jack" Hood, and it developed tha the gubernatorial speech had been made by Mr. Hood in the basement of the building, over a "faked" radio outfit arranged by William Tritcheller of the General Service Co. Real honest-to-goodness radio was a later feature of the evening, however.

The Lucasville Betterment Association made the first formal deposit in the newly organized Lucasville bank, presenting Cashier Louis McKinley with a new one dollar bill. The new bank has not been opened as yet, but plans are progressing splendidly.

Ford Coupe Stolen

At 6:30 last night Ben Reisner of the stereotype department of the Times parked his Ford Coupe on Sixth street near Chillicothe. When he returned for it a short time later the machine was missing. The police were notified.

Penny Social

A Penny Social was the big event at the Ben Hur lodge meeting in their hall, Fifth and Chillicothe streets. A large crowd was on hand and there was plenty of amusement for all.

Another penny social will be held in two weeks. Next week a good sized class will be initiated.
